SONS OF ITALY PUT ON COLUMBUS DAY PROGRAM OF MERIT

Citizens and Future Citizens of Italian Birth Make Up a Pretty and Colorful Parade.

FIREWORKS TONITE

The celebration of Columbus day in Clearfield today was all that could be desired by the citizens and others of Italian nativity, who made such careful and successful preparations to signify honor their illustrious fellow nationalist, the intrepid discoverer of this great American continent of ours.

The day was ideal for the gathering as from the hour of 6 o'clock this morning, when President Joe Ianaro, began the day by discharging the first installment of fireworks in front of his home on Daisy street, until the big parade started at 1 o'clock, a steady stream of visitors entered the town from every direction.

The meeting place was the new hall of the Sons of Italy nearing completion on Daisy street and there the forenoon was spent in receiving the different delegations and assigning them to their places in the parade.

Delegations were present from the ten or twelve lodges of the Sons of Italy located in this district, which embraced the counties of Clearfield, Centre, Jefferson, Elk, Indiana, and Cambria. The town was profusely decorated, the decorations being the best ever seen in the town, rows of streamers bearing gaily covered pennants being suspended across the main streets of the town from Walnut street on Second and up Nichols to the Park and between Front and Fourth on Market and down Daisy street to the borough line.

The parade was culminated by the music of both the Clearfield Italian Citizens and American Legion Bands, the Clearfield Legion Band, Reynoldsville and Paxsonswan bands. Upon the arrival of the parade at the park addresses were made by Hon. A. R. Chase, Hon. Singleton Bell, himself an honorary member of the order, Walter Welch, Esq., Editor John F. Short, Fred Curran and a number of other visiting and local citizens of Italian nativity.

An interesting program of sports was presented at the Park during the afternoon, while some excellent music was rendered by the bands. Dancing also indulged in by the young.

WHO WILL HEED THIS CALL?

A woman is lying seriously ill at the Clearfield Hospital, having recently undergone a very serious surgical operation. She has made the gamut kind of a fight for life, but is even now in the "valley of the shadow." Whether she enters the portals of the Great Beyond, despite her great fight to get well, depends on whether or not some healthy, full-blooded person will be willing to endent to supplying the blood for due a little discomfort including a transfusion.

If you consider yourself your brother's keeper sufficient to make this minor sacrifice that health and strength to live may be restored to this patient sufferer, kindly notify the Progress by phone or otherwise to night or tomorrow, your name will be taken and if needed word will be given you in time for a test of your blood to be made previous to the transfusion.

Inspection Of Air Mail Route Is Being Made; A Ship Passed Over Today

Mitchell Field, L. I., Oct. 13. (INS.)—Lieut. M. L. Elliott, U. S. A., hoped off today on an inspection trip of the east-west air mail routes that will keep him flying over 7,000 miles for a month.

The primary purpose of the trip is to find new air ways for mail planes. The War Department authorized O. E. Caesar an artist, to accompany Lieut. Elliott and make sketches of the country covered.

The first stop will be Bellefonte, Pa., then the plane will go to Cleveland, Bryan, Ohio; Mount Clemens, Mich.; Columbus, Neb.; Salt Lake City and Kansas City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, El Paso, Texas; San Antonio, Chicago, and back to Mitchell field.

Lieut. Elliott passed over Clearfield at about noon today, making many circles here to enable the artist to get in a few strokes of the view of the beautiful Susquehanna Valley.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN TO MEET TONIGHT AT COURT HOUSE

The Republican women of Clearfield are getting ready to make an active campaign on behalf of the ticket from Coolidge down to the smallest office. The time set for a sort of conversation to duty is 7:30 this evening when the Council of Republican Women of Clearfield will hold both an organization and public meeting at the Court House in the Arbitration room. At this meeting there will be able speakers and the officers of the organization bespeak a large turnout.

The first part of the meeting will be for routine matters and the speaking will begin at eight o'clock. This organization invites all Republican women to attend the meeting this evening. It also invites those women who are Calvin Coolidge the logical man to be and continue to be president of the United States to attend, regardless of their political beliefs and principles. Do not forget the hour: this evening at 8 o'clock. Members of the organization should be there a half hour earlier.

DIED

Mrs. Mary C. Garman passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. H. H. Lutz at noon today after a lingering illness, having taken her last 26 weeks ago today. Funeral notice and obituary later.

N. Y. C. CREWS NOT TO BE DISTURBED BY NEW SCHEDULES

Following is a letter received by an officer of the Commercial Club who interested himself in the probability of train crews being taken away from Clearfield in connection with a new scheme of operation being tried out by the Central:

Mr. Randall B. Brubaker, Gen. Secy. The Clearfield Commercial Club, Clearfield, Penna.:

My Dear Mr. Brubaker:—Your letter Oct. 4, relative running crews through to Cherry Tree and return.

We are making some experiments to determine the cost per car and other information on handling our cars in this manner as compared with two crews west bound and east bound. This arrangement, as I see it, is not going to affect your people in any way, and I wish you would explain this matter to them.

My delay in answering your letter was due to my having been away for several days. I hope to be able to see you on my next trip to Clearfield when I will be glad to talk the matter over with you.

Yours truly,
(signed) H. SCOTT, Supt.

Frederick Beam, 20, Is Dead Man; Companion, Walter Ralston, 18, of Kylertown, Is Resuscitated When Taken to Philipsburg Hospital.

YOUTHS LOCKED UP SATURDAY NIGHT

Philipsburg, Pa., Oct. 13.—Frederick Beam, 20, son of Emmet Beam of Woodland, is dead and Walter Ralston, 18, of Kylertown is in the hospital in a grave condition as a result of a fire which gutted the combined public building and jail here this morning about 4:30 o'clock.

The men had been arrested by local officers Saturday evening and confined to the jail for drunkenness. Through all of Saturday night they were in a maudlin condition and created an uproar by their shouts and cries. They quieted down on Sunday; but this morning residents near the jail were awakened by their repeated shouts for help. After nearly an hour of this some one investigated and discovered the blaze in the basement. No attention had before been paid to their appeals, it being assumed they had returned to their maudlin condition of Saturday night.

The alarm was immediately sounded and firemen of both companies responded. The night policeman was located and brought to the jail to release the prisoners. He was unable to insert the key in the lock and when he had succeeded in breaking open the cell doors both men were unconscious. Ralston had his head enclosed in a blanket but Beam was unprotected from the deadly fumes. Fire had not communicated to the cell section of the jail but the smoke and gas flooded the room.

The unconscious men were removed from the burning building and doctors were called to the scene. Artificial respiration was effective in the case of Ralston but Beam was probably dead when he was taken from his cell. Both men were taken to the Philipsburg State hospital and artificial respiration was resorted to for two hours. Beam failed to respond to the heroic measures and he was pronounced dead.

The cause of the fatal fire is undetermined. An early arrival on the scene asserted he had witnessed a couple of men remove a box containing fire from the front of the building. His story is being investigated. When the alleged box was searched for it could not be found. Incendiaries may have started the blaze and taken this precaution to destroy the evidence of their deed. The stubborn blaze resisted the efforts of firemen to extinguish it, and soon spread to the first floor which is used as a fire house. The interior is a total loss. The fire-fighting equipment was saved.

An investigation is being demanded by interested citizens who feel that responsibility for the fire and the resultant death should be placed on those who were at fault. An hour of shouting and shaking the cell doors availed the men nothing—they didn't have a chance. Whether the fault is with the method of conducting the jail remains to be seen.

A brother of the dead youth was informed this morning of the tragic death. He said the family of the deceased had been worried Saturday and Sunday about the whereabouts of young Beam. When he was shown the body of his dead brother the man burst into heart-broken tears. The deplorable happening has saddened the town, although no one here knew either of the men personally.

RIGHT AND PROPER

Washington, Oct. 13. (INS.)—The Supreme Court of the United States today refused to intervene to prevent punishment of striking railroad employees of the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Railroad, who deserted a train in the alkali plains of Arizona in the strike of 1922, leaving the passengers to suffer from heat and drought.

SWOOP TALKS ON CAMPAIGN ISSUES TO WOMEN VOTERS OF THIS DISTRICT

Congressman Swoope delivered the following interesting address at the meeting of the League of Women voters last evening:

"I am glad to see so many of you here this evening, interested in politics. It seems to me that one of the most discouraging features of the political situation is that so few of the voters take the trouble to vote. In the election of 1920, only one half the men and one-fourth the women turned out. Every woman should consider it as much her duty to vote as she considers it her duty to go to church. We cannot have democratic government in this country unless the people themselves take an interest in it. Therefore, your movement to get out the vote meets a very pressing need, and should have the support of all good citizens.

"I think you ladies should consider all the candidate running for election, as they are all men of good reputation so far as my knowledge extends, solely for the policies they represent. I think this has always been so. For instance, every one of the 26 Presidents of the United States, Democratic, Federalist, Whig, Republican, have been men of the highest character, men whose personal integrity was never even questioned, but what a difference in their policies! Therefore, it is the policies which candidates represent that are most important to the voters.

"There has been much criticism of the first session of the present Congress for what they did and did not do. But it seems to me that all present here this evening will agree that congress did at least three commendable things last winter. First, they reduced the taxes over four hundred million dollars. As nobody wants to pay more taxes than he has to, I know that this reduction of taxes is approved by all.

"Second, they passed a resolution to submit to the states the child labor amendment. There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the purpose of this amendment. For instance, I read in one of the newspapers of my own town that it was bolshevism, because the purpose was to take the children away from the homes and educate them in public institutions. But there was no such purpose in the resolution. By the supreme court decision, it was held that congress had no power to legislate on the subject of child labor. The purpose of the amendment is only to give congress the power to legislate on this subject, and the reason for giving congress this power is to make the law as to child labor uniform over the whole country. At present, some of the states, such as Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, have excellent child labor laws. But many of the other states have no such laws, and the consequence is that children of only seven years of age are toiling in the cotton mills of Georgia 12 hours a day for only seven cents a day. This is not only an outrage on childhood, but is a serious economic drawback to the wage scale in our northern states.

"Third, congress enacted the new immigration law, which is in my opinion, the best law we ever had, and provides that in future immigration following is the text of an able talk made by Congressman William I. Swoope to a body of women assembled at Bradford recently who desired to hear an intelligent exposition of the issues before the American people in the presidential election:

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF THE BANDITS WHO MURDERED GARMAN

Ebensburg, Pa., Oct. 13. (INS.)—After two days' search, no trace of the five bandits who Saturday held up and killed James J. Garman, a guard, in charge of the payroll for the Ebensburg Coal Company, has been found. County, state and local authorities, in addition to five hundred citizens of the county are maintaining a constant search of the woods and highways in the hope of obtaining some clue to the highwaymen's whereabouts.

The Cambria County Commissioners have offered a reward of $1000 for the apprehension of the men.

It is believed by many that the robbery was staged by experts and that several cars may have been used in making their escape. The car used by the bandits was owned by Mrs. Clara Snyder of Johnstown, and was abandoned near Nicktown, Pa.

Five men are being held in the county jail here today in connection with the robbery, and four other suspects arrested last night were released today. Two of the prisoners refused to give their names, but the others said they were Joseph Ferrario, his brother John, and Peter Reed. The quintet was arrested in a wooded section one and one-half miles from Bakertown. The men deny any knowledge of the robber which netted the bandits $33,000.

CAR BURNS UP ON LUTHERSBURG ROAD SUNDAY EVENING

DuBois, Oct. 13.—One of the most disastrous accidents to take place during the day, occurred about 6 o'clock last evening at Chestnut Grove, on the Lakes-to-the-Sea highway, at which time the car owned and driven by J. F. Heller, of South Brady street, was almost completely destroyed as the result of taking fire.

Mr. Heller had been on a trip to Muncy and was returning home at the time. Right after taking the rather steep hill leading up to the Chestnut Hill school house, Mr. Heller, who was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, discovered the automobile to be on fire. The occupants immediately got out of the car and made every effort to extinguish the flames, but they had gotten too much headway, and nothing could be done. Although the burning car was off to one side of the road, traffic for a long distance back on each side was held up, drivers being afraid to take the risk of driving past the flames, fearing an explosion of the gasoline tank. A hole was punched into the tank of the Heller car and the gasoline let out, eliminating the danger of an explosion.

The entire body of the car was destroyed. The flames did most of its damage to the frame, the motor, it is believed, not being damaged to any great extent.

The origin of the fire was attributed to the fact that a part of the heater pipe was lost, and grease in the pan became ignited, working back gradually. The flames were fanned as the car proceeded up the hill.

Philadelphia—Pity for a youthful robber here secured him his release without prosecution when word was received from the Boston police that the youth has a long criminal record. The youth admits being J. Venturini. He wanted for violation of parole in Boston. He refused to give his name here when shot by a policeman after snatching a woman's hand bag but told them to call him the "unfortunate boy."

MRS. WILLOW FACES JURY TODAY; WOMAN IS WITHOUT A FRIEND

By VIN SWEENEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Middleburg, Pa., Oct. 13.—In a low voice and with eyes downcast, Mrs. Annie Willow, charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying of her husband, Harvey Willow, pleaded not guilty to the indictment before Judge Miles I. Potter today.

While the woman was making her plea, her seven-year-old daughter Ida sat in the court room, her big blue eyes filled with tears. The defendant wept when her son, Glenn, 11, came to court.

Mrs. Willow is alleged to have investigated Ralph Shadel, her 18-year-old sweetheart, to shoot her husband while they were in the woods hunting.

Up until noon recess only four of the 21 jurors examined had been accepted. They were: Phares Walters, 37, farmer; George W. Hassinger, 60, laborer; David Spaid, 61, carpenter; Charles Bingham, 67, retired farmer.

Both sides took meticulous care in selecting of jurors. Verbal clashes were numerous and Judge Potter was forced to give opinions and call order several times.

That the case will be one of the most sensational in Central Pennsylvania was evidenced from plans of defense and prosecution.

Ex-Judge A. W. Johnson, chief counsel for the defense, made known he will use a charge of brutality of the husband as one of his chief points. He also said he has several notes from Shadel to Mrs. Willow, passed secretly in the jail, which tend to show Shadel "led to save myself."

Johnson said he would welcome Shadel being put on the stand for the prosecution for then he would show "the real character of this boy."

On the other hand the prosecution was just as confident of sending Mrs. Willow to the electric chair. District Attorney Miller reiterated again this morning that he is satisfied with his case and said to "look for surprises from Shadel."

Middleburg, Pa., Oct. 13. (INS.)—Spurned by her acquaintances rejected by her friends, condemned by the casual curious, Mrs. Annie Willow, 38, alleged to have driven 18 year old Ralph Shadel to the brutal murder of her husband, today faced the state's grim demand for explanation—death in the electric chair.

Indicted for first degree murder by a grand jury last Monday, the woman, through her counsel chose a separate trial rather than stand jointly with her youthful lover.

Shadel has been convicted of second degree murder and will soon begin his twenty year term in the eastern penitentiary. He has a chance of being released for good behavior at the end of ten years.

Aroused by the brutality of the murder of Harvey Willow by Shadel last December the entire county followed with interest the progress of the boy's trial. But it was an interest toned with pity—pity for a mere boy who was continually pictured as slave to the woman's fascination.

In direct contrast is the attitude of the country folk today. Few have compassion on the wife, who proved unfaithful—fewer still on the woman whose confession admits she urged "Ralph to get rid of him"—her husband. Even her parents, after her

ALL BECAUSE SHE BOBBED HER HAIR

New York, Oct. 13. (INS.)—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dwyer and their two year old daughter Florence, once were a happy family. Then Mrs. Dwyer had her hair bobbed. Her husband was so affected he collapsed and was in bed two weeks. The wife said when he got up he was so enraged he grabbed her throat and abused her. Today they were in Brooklyn Supreme Court fighting for custody of the baby girl, who sat on the knee of Justice May during testimony taking. He reserved decision, hoping to effect a reconciliation.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

World War veterans who delay making application for Soldiers' Bonus are doing an injustice to themselves and their dependents, and running a risk of losing part of their bonus.

There are 4,500,000 veterans entitled to the bonus. Less than one-third of them have applied—only 1,500,000 so far.

Each soldier is entitled to a bonus consisting of a twenty-year endowment insurance policy, the amount being based upon the length of his service. The sum of his bonus, with interest at four per cent, will be paid in twenty years from now, if he lives. If he dies in the meantime, the money will go to his dependents on insurance payment.

But the amount of insurance varies. In the case of a soldier entitled to a maximum bonus figure of $625, he dies before filing his application, widow, children, or other dependents will get only his $625, paid in quarterly installments of $62.50.

The same soldier had filed his application before dying, his widow, children or other dependents receive $1,580 in one payment CASH.

Most of these men will be alive 20 years from now. Then the surviving man will receive a handsome sum CASH. The full service veteran—the one who served 500 days or over—receive not $625, but $1,900 in money, for his basic bonus is rounded at four per cent interest. Moreover, his insurance certificate, running two years from now, has a value at the banks.

His insurance certificate, it must be understood, costs the soldier nothing. It is a gift from the Government. All he has to do is to apply. Any veteran is not sufficientlyested himself to apply for his bonus, his father, mother, sister or other children should see that he does.

Application blanks can be obtained at a post office or thru the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled Americans Veterans National Guard, the Organized Reserves, Army, Navy, and the Corps stations and the Veterans Bureau Agency, or by addressing Adjusted Compensation Branch, War Department, Washington.

A recruiting officer at No. 29 South Third Street has a staff of men to distribute applications and assist in making them out. Finger experts are also present to complete this phase of filling out the blanks.

Operating with the State Department of Health's educational campaign, Dr. F. R. Wheeler, Director, Department of Public Health, Scranton, Pa., says:

"I am often referred to be surrounded by men, fearing the lean and the fat. The old saw says: 'A horse for a long race.' Caesar has been right. The old saw is: 'The fat man may sleep well, but the lean man lives longer.' There is no longer doubt that overweight is a definite menace to life. The forty-inch line has gone out of vogue. It is ever considered beautiful. It is now considered dangerous. Falstaff is an amusing old rogue, but he died of diabetes or of high pressure.

Twenty-five per cent of diabetics are overweight. Overweight and high pressure go hand in hand. Fatty, which is associated with gendancy, causes short breath and life. Overweight in youth is not so serious as it is later. Even slight overweight after 25 years of age is dangerous. The seriousness increases with advancing years and with amount of overweight. Among short men between 40 and 44, a 20 per cent overweight means an increased mortality of 30 per cent, while a 40 per cent overweight means 80 per cent increase in mortality. To tall men the danger is greater.

Underweight in youth is dangerous, but in mature life it is an asset. The average weight is not the base weight. Mortality statistics prove that those of mature years who are slightly below average weight live longest.

"All this means that you should keep your weight well within the average for your height. Learn what your weight should be, use your scales and head more, your teeth and digestive organs less. Overweight and underweighting alone cause fat. Eat less, exercise more. Fair, fat and forty is no longer a satisfactory alibi. Fair and forty-five; fat—no. Do not tickle your palate at the expense of your health. Do not dig your grave with your teeth. Do not be a fat man. See your doctor and find out the details of safe weight reduction."

Swoop Talks

shall be for the good of America. But, as I have recently addressed a large audience in Bradford on this subject, including many of you present this evening, I will not at this time go into this subject any further.

"What are the issues of this campaign? The Democratic presidential candidate says that there are three issues before the people at this time. I want to take them up one after the other. The first issue he speaks of is what he calls 'Republican corruption,' and he says that he 'charges the Republican party with corruption.' But 150 years ago Burke said, 'You cannot indict a nation.' The Republican party contains over 20 millions of men and women. The great majority of them are honest, as are the great majority of the Democrats.

"Mr. Davis cites five unworthy public officials, but he does not add that every one of the five, convicted or unconvicted, has retired to private life. The 'Springfield' Republican, writes: 'The scandals belong to the past. The new cabinet officers' appointed by President Coolidge have stainless records and unimpeachable integrity. This fact gives the Republican voters new confidence in their party's leadership and its capacity for further service.' The Republican party had no patience with corruptionists. Who was the chief investigator, and who deserves the chief credit for uncovering the fraud in the Veterans' Bureau? Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, a Republican, Colonel Forbes has been indicted and will soon be tried. So has ex-Secretary Fall for the oil frauds, and all those found guilty will be punished as they deserve.

"The second issue he mentions is the tariff. Mr. Davis is an old-fashioned Democrat from a near-southern state, and the only remedy he has to propose for the woes of the farmer and the rest of the country is to reduce the tariff to what he calls a 'competitive basis.' This is the same old Democratic doctrine of free trade which was taught by Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party, who was also from the south, and who denounced the first protective tariff of Hamilton in almost the same words in which Mr. Davis denounces the present Fordney-McCumber tariff.

"But we have had experiences of what it means to have a low Democratic tariff. The last Democratic tariff was the Underwood tariff of 1913. GALLEY 2—SWOOP. This was disastrous to American business and American labor. We found by actual experience that the results predicted by the Republicans in 1912 promptly followed its enactment. Business fell off, works were closed, labor was out of employment, imports largely increased, but prices continued to rise higher and higher.

"What effect did these immense importations have on American products and American labor? It is estimated that in the spring of 1914, under the Democratic tariff and before the European war broke out, 300,000 men in New York and 200,000 in Chicago were patronizing the soup houses and bread lines much as they were in 1896 under the operation of the Wilson tariff of 1894. Factories were everywhere closing down.

"As soon as the Republicans got in, they passed the Fordney Emergency tariff, and followed it by the Fordney-McCumber tariff, both written on protective principles. What was the result? The five million men who were out of employment three years ago have all gone back to work. The sunshine of prosperity beams over the whole country. It shines, too, on the just and the unjust as well; on the Republican protectionist, as well as the Democratic free-trader; everybody is better off because the Republicans won.

"The third issue Mr. Davis speaks of is the League of Nations, although in the tremendous turmoil in the three weeks' fight in the Democratic convention, they consigned the League of Nations to the waste paper basket of an unconstitutional and impossible referendum, their candidate says that he is for joining the League as it is at present constituted, including Article Ten, which requires each of the members to send armies and navies to the assistance of any one of them that may be attacked. This means that our American boys would be sent to the four corners of the earth whenever war started in any one of the 54 countries that make up the present League of Nations. The supreme council of the League of Nations, consisting of only five men, has the power to involve the whole world in war.

"The Republican party believes in avoiding all foreign entanglements. We want to help Europe, but we do not want to ruin ourselves. We intend to do all for Europe that we can afford to. Our late President wanted us to join the World Court. President Coolidge is also in favor of doing so. The World Court is an American idea, and it is quite practicable for the United States to participate in its proceedings without obligating ourselves to become involved in all the innumerable wars of Europe and Asia.

"But there is still a more important issue in this campaign that Mr. Davis mentions, and that is the attempt of the new party to destroy the constitution of the United States and do away with the powers of the supreme court. This is the most dangerous question that has ever been before the American people. It concerns our fundamental law, with its guarantees of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Our constitution is the guarantor of our liberties. It is the supreme law of this country. And Mr. Coolidge is the only presidential candidate that stands unreservedly for the protection and maintenance of that supreme charter or our liberties. This must be said, editorially, remarks the Boston Transcript, because Mr. Davis has put himself on record as speaking slightly and depreciatingly of the constitution as having been 'fixed' so that the 'kickers' could control the government."

"The record of the administration is, as our candidate says, a government of common sense. The government has been rescued from impending bankruptcy caused by the terrible extravagance of the last Democratic administration, and government expenditures have been reduced from seven billion dollars a year to three and one-half billion dollars. The disarmament conference, which a well-known writer styled the greatest advance in world peace ever made in history, was called by the Republican party. The independence of our country free from all entangling alliances with Europe in the League of Nations has been preserved by the Republican party. Finally, the Dawes plan for the settlement of the reparations problem in Europe, and the restoration of peace to those distressed countries.

tries, has been brought about by the leaders of the Republican party.

"On this record our candidate stands. He has been tried and not found wanting. The Boston Post, the leading Democratic paper of New England, is supporting him, and cannot close my remarks better than by reading to you an editorial from that famous newspaper.

"The Post purposes to support Calvin Coolidge for the presidency. We know Calvin Coolidge as an honest man. He was born in the Lincoln tradition, a product of our New England hills. His rise to the heights has stirred the heart of every man and woman who loves New England. He has honored New England by doing his duty competently and quietly in every office from the lowest to the highest. No man could do more. Amid all the admitted wrong-doing, our New England President stands out clear and blameless. He inherited a situation which would have crushed a less clear-headed and resolute man. He grappled with it courageously and efficiently. America still needs these clean New England virtues which were born and bred in our President. He is the best we have to give to the nation.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

Yesterday was another big day for the church and Sabbath School, at the hour of the morning service it was our privilege to hear the message brought thru God's servant, Rev. W. Gilbert Condit, who came to use representing the work of the Near East Relief. Mr. Condit is one who has seen the great need in the land of the Near East and pictured in a very vivid way the consequence, if this great nation and people failed to help. The musical numbers rendered by the organ and choir were as usual inspiring and uplifting. At the hour of the Sabbath school we were fortunate in having Mr. Kempner, missionary from the distant land of Africa, who brought a real message to all. He with Mrs. Kempner and Mr. Pierson are hoping to return the latter part of the month to their fields of service, and to those who have been brought to know Him, and are beckoning for them to return.

The evening hour of worship, it was our pleasure to have as our guests, the members of the Eastern Star. The message was the fourth step in the series "Building for Life," on "Friends." Dr. Reeve made it very clear that one's friends will either make or mar a life, closing with the thought that to be sure that in the circle was Jesus Christ the chief of all friends. There is no doubt that the singing by the men's chorus is sincerely appreciated, the selection "The Wayside Cross" was a message of great power and blessing.

Tonight at 7:30 the monthly meeting of the Westminster Guild, the first meeting for the newly elected officers. It is urgent that everyone be present. The Guild will sew following the meeting for the Christmas bazaar.

Wednesday evening the mid-week prayer service, invites every one to come and become better acquainted with Him who is made so real.

Thursday afternoon the monthly meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies at 3:00. Mrs. J. Lawrence Dole will have charge of the meeting. Your part will be to come.

Thursday evening at the Reedsville Chapel the weekly prayer service. We had an excellent meeting last week. Let us duplicate it this week.

Every one most cordially invited to have a part in all of the meetings of the church.

Oldest Known Will. A will executed in 2548 B. C. is the oldest extant. It is written on papyrus by an Egyptian named Uah. In it he gave his home and other property to his wife, to be left by her to any of their children; arranged for the burial of himself and wife, and appointed a guardian for a son. In fact the will differs little from one which might be executed today.

Why It Will Pay You to Trade In Clearfield

Citizenship has a very definite value. While this value may not be computed in dollars and cents, still it is worth fighting for. Were there no communities there would be no citizens. We would then be merely unprotected individuals entirely at the mercy of all other individuals who might be stronger than we and wish to destroy us.

So you see that by dwelling in communities as citizens we have many advantages. Some of us value and fully appreciate these values while others selfishly accept the advantages offered but refuse to do their share toward maintaining the community.

And so laws were enacted to compel us to pay taxes to use for the financial support of the community for our protection. But we have no laws compelling the members of any community to show appreciation of the benefits derived from living in a community. We are all supposed to be loyal citizens and so no such laws are deemed necessary.

One of the benefits of living in a community is the opportunity afforded us to buy merchandise required for our comfort and indulgence, right here in our own town. This facility permits us to buy what we need when we need it. We can step into a store, lay down a dollar and buy a dollar's worth of merchandise. Can you realize what a genuine benefit this

THE GAME OF "BOOB"

Why worry about an artificial age, with its commercialized and nerve-racking entertainments, when we still have London to set us an example in simple pleasures? London, it appears, is the home of easy games that take nothing out of the purse and can be played as one goes to and from his work or his home.

First there was "beaver", in which the players scored on the heads of the persons they passed. Next came "tortoise". This time the scoring was done on persons wearing tortoise rim glasses.

The present game is "boob". This is a little more complicated, but not enough so to be out of the simple pleasure class. It involves luring innocent strangers to a show of their knowledge. The players travel in pairs. Their move is to point out some very familiar building or monument or street and to tell each other in tones quite loud enough to be heard what these places are. Only they purposely blunder. For example, the first player might point to Kensington Gardens and exclaim loudly, "Oh, here is the War Office!" If a stranger is caught and attempts to correct the players, there are two methods of scoring. If the stranger makes a true correction, the first speaker simply scores one. But if the corrector himself makes a mistake the first speaker wins the whole game.

How pleasant life must be in dear old London!

MORE MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS

The director of the department of music in the public schools of one of the larger cities believes that the time is nearly ripe for the establishment of a high school devoted entirely to music.

"We have high schools of commerce and high schools of technology," he argues. "The next logical development is a high school of music."

A study made at one of the largest high schools in that city found 58 pupils who expected to make music their vocation. More than twice that number planned to use their musical talent as a partial source of income. In the whole city, it was estimated, there would be from 1,000 to 2,000 pupils wanting to make music their major study. Many of them drop out of high school before their academic course is finished, in order to concentrate the sooner on their musical education. They could be kept in school longer and so derive more benefit from a well-rounded education if they had the same opportunity to specialize in music as the commercial or technical high school pupils have to specialize in accounting or carpentering or dress-making.

A special high school for every trade and profession, which might be regarded as the ultimate outcome of such a policy, would naturally be ridiculous, at least at this stage of educational progress. Many educators maintain that a thorough academic course ought to precede all such specialization, and that some other way should be worked out to keep pupils in school instead of the method proposed.

However that may be, it certainly is a wise plan to contemplate putting more music into the public schools. Orchestras, bands and glee clubs in high schools, as well as choral singing for the whole school, are exceedingly useful and inspiring.

ONE TRAIL—BLAZER TO ANOTHER

By FLORENCE DAVIES

The romance of the air is just beginning to be written. Perhaps the time will come when the air will be as rich in story as the sea. Certainly one little chapter in its romance was written when Ezra Meeker, ninety-one of the trail-blazers of another day, traveled the long route which he once traced by ox team, as the guest of an army air pilot, speeding back in a few days over the ground which he had first covered in many weary months.

Years ago, when the caravans were moving westward across the plains of America, this Ezra Meeker was one of the men who helped to break the trail.

Just the other day, he came back with a trail breaker of the air, enjoying the trip every mile of the way, so he said.

It's an odd thing that even in this very old world the business of trail-breaking goes on. New and better ways are found every day; old routes are abandoned for new roads, and so we move along.

The great thing about Mr. Meeker's picturesque trip back across the continent was surely not that a man of ninety could stand the rigors of air travel, though that was a noteworthy feat in itself. It was rather that Mr. Meeker at ninety was still a trail-blazer, still open-minded enough to accept the next thing.

For it must be remembered that Mr. Meeker has lived to see the snorting iron horse take the place of the lumbering ox-team, the swift moving horseless carriage supercede the horse-driven vehicle and now the winged creatures of the air leave for behind the earthbound motor car, and that he has apparently accepted them all.

For no man who, at ninety would undertake a trip across the country by air, could ever have belonged to that inevitable chorus of "can't-be-doubters," the doubters and scoffers who always question the new and cling to the old for very conscience sake.

That and not because he was hardly enough to stand the trip is why Mr.

Meeker must be 90 years young. Youth naturally experiments with the new, looks ahead, tries a better way.

But the trick comes when middle age brings experience and caution. To keep looking ahead then, to keep believing in the future instead of the past, to be willing to learn and to experiment after arteries begin to harden and habits of thought begin to become fixed, that is a real achievement. And so, one feels like saying "Three Cheers for Ezra Meeker," who at ninety is still a trail-blazer.

K. of Round Oak Heating Engineers Before you Can Buy—Installed According to Their Plans Specially Drawn After a Study of Your Problems—No Extra Charge for This Service—Will Save Its Cost in Fuel in the Future Years of Service—Built of Heavy Oversize Parts to Serve You a Generation or More—Investigate!

The Round Oak Ironbilt Furnace is made by the Famous Round Oak Folks, who for half a century have made good goods only. It is built to cost, in the long run, less than any other system at any price. Big, heavy, oversize parts of sturdiest metals, joined permanently tight by a patented method, insure low upkeep, low fuel consumption, and freedom from the escape of dust, gas or soot into the house over a generation or more of time. It circulates throughout all rooms an abundance of healthfully moist, clean warmth as it withdraws the cold air out of the rooms.

ROUND OAK
PIPELESS HEATING SYSTEM

It is installed only after the Round Oak Heating Engineers have examined a plan of your home, approved your home as suitable and have prepared special plans for the location of the furnace and registers. Satisfaction is not only thus assured you—satisfaction is GUARANTEED you. On minor days a little fuel will in ten or fifteen minutes completely remove the chill without over-heating. On bitter cold days your house will quickly become and stay as warm and balmy as it is outdoors on an ideal summer day. Thousands of owners of homes which have long been heated by Round Oak Ironbilt Furnaces testify to these facts. Why let your family shiver in discomfort and endure colds and sickness due to inefficient heating—why waste costly fuel up your chimney—why stand for the fuss and constant nursing of a fire that never gives you the comfort it should—why tolerate a worn-out heating plant that fills the home with gas and dirt.

Why suffer these disadvantages when you can so easily take advantage of our immediate offer and enjoy comfort, health and economy with freedom from heating worries for more than the next generation to come?

Come in and see a Round Oak Ironbilt—let us point out its many advantages—let us give you the big free Round Oak Heating Book to take home and study—let us talk over our offer and show you how much it enables you to save!

Do this at once! Call today or tomorrow. Be one of the few to benefit by our offer. Get your heating problem settled for years to come—live with your family in solid comfort no matter how the wind howls outdoors. Save fuel, money, time and trouble! This is your opportunity! Take advantage of it. Do not let it pass without investigation—for investigation does not obligate you in the slightest.

Mr. John H. Martin, Market Street: My Othello stove has been in constant use since I bought it 27 years ago. The top is in excellent condition at the present, showing no signs of warping. I have only burned out one grate in that time. It still has the same waterback and is highly satisfactory in every particular.

ONE OF OUR MOST PROMINENT
CITIZENS AGAIN GIVEN
SPECIAL ATTENTION

We clip the following from the Erie Herald:

"The Firemen's State Convention is being held in our city. Our reporter during the great parade on Thursday noticed the members of the Clearfield Fire Department. His attention was especially attracted by the manly and military bearing of W. Banks Holmes, a member of Clearfield's celebrated fire fighters. Mr. Holmes, we are informed, is one of this State's oldest active firemen, having been in the service for more than forty years. He attends all District and State Conventions and is on these occasions welcomed by the young and old fire boys. He has been honored by his Fire Company by being presented with a gold badge, a certificate of honor, and charter membership. We also noticed while he was parading he attracted the attention of the ladies and many smiles were cast in his direction and numerous bouquets were tossed him by the fair sex. Mr. Holmes is being entertained by an old ministerial friend and think he would vouch for Mr. Holmes' temperate and moral conduct during this trip.

Mr. Holmes informs us the stories he has heard about wharves interesting the waters of the Lake is a strange one. The largest fish he has seen was a 25-pound sun fish which some of the Houtzdale Firemen thought an enlarged gold fish. Will say of friend Holmes, we think, because of his long experience he has been in many tight dangerous places and suffered numerous narrow escapes by a hair's breadth. He well represents the Clearfield Firemen and does them honor. Call again. The stars are down, the door is wide open. You are very welcome."

NEAR MILFORD, PA.

New Milford, Pa., Oct. 13 (INS).—The engineer and fireman on an east-bound freight train on the Delaware Lackawanna and Western Railroad were killed here today when the freight was struck from the rear by passenger train No. 14, running on the same track bound from Buffalo to New York.

Passengers in sleeping berths were badly shaken up but none is believed seriously hurt.

The dead men, Michael Kelley, Engineer, and Ray H. Osterhaut, fireman both of Hallstead, Pa., were pinned beneath the "pusher" engine they were operating when it overturned.

TWO SHOT, ONE DIES
IN TRYING ESCAPE
FROM W. VA. PRISON

Moundsville, W. Va., Oct. 13 (INS).—Earl Blankenship, 23, shot to death and Harry McCracken, 23, received wounds from which he is expected to die when the pair attempted to escape from their cell at the West Virginia State Penitentiary today, according to a report made by Warden Simon Smith this afternoon.

The men had released themselves from their cell and were well on their way to freedom when discovered by guards who shot the prisoners, the warden declared. No guards or other prisoners were implicated in the attempted jail break, according to the warden.

Although the shooting caused much confusion, the jail routine was back to normal this afternoon, the warden asserted. Both of the men were convicted from Marion county.

PENNSY-GRAMS

Philadelphia—Two persons were injured here last night when a youth thrust his head out of an automobile and struck a 75-year-old man, knocking him unconscious. Herman Kruse, the victim, was rushed to the hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull. The youth, William Turner, of Trenton, received a badly swollen jaw.

Philadelphia—Mayor Kendrick will go to Washington soon to ask President Coolidge for extension of General Smedley Butler's leave of absence from the marine corps in order that he may stay the full four years here as Safety Director it was announced. The breath between the two men is now closed.

Harrisburg—Their auto running down a 20-foot embankment at Steelton and then toppling over when the steering mechanism became faulty, Dr. B. T. Dickinson and his two daughters, Miss Sarah and Mrs. J. P. Gardner, had a miraculous escape from death. The fact that they remained in the car when it toppled saved them from serious injury although all three were cut by flying glass and painfully bruised.

Altoona—The 31st annual sessions of the Department Council, Militant Patriots, of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, opened here today with an address of welcome by Mayor E. P. Giles, and a response by Mayor General R. J. Lippey of Reading. More than 500 delegates are already here for the meeting.

Harrisburg—Mrs. Joseph Dunkle, of Steelton, was instantly killed at the dangerous York Spring cross roads this morning where on Saturday two Franklin and Marshall professors were seriously hurt. Mrs. Dunkle, with a party of friends, were on their way to Washington, D. C., when the accident occurred. She was thrown from the machine and her head was crushed.

DEATH OF FRANCE

Tours, France, Oct. 13 (INS).—Hundreds of messages of condolence were received today over the death of Anatole France, famous French essayist and novelist. He had been ill for a year and had been sinking for two weeks, so his death was not unexpected.

Mr. France was in his 81st year. His funeral probably will be Wednesday or Thursday. It is expected that public ceremonies will be conducted in Paris later.

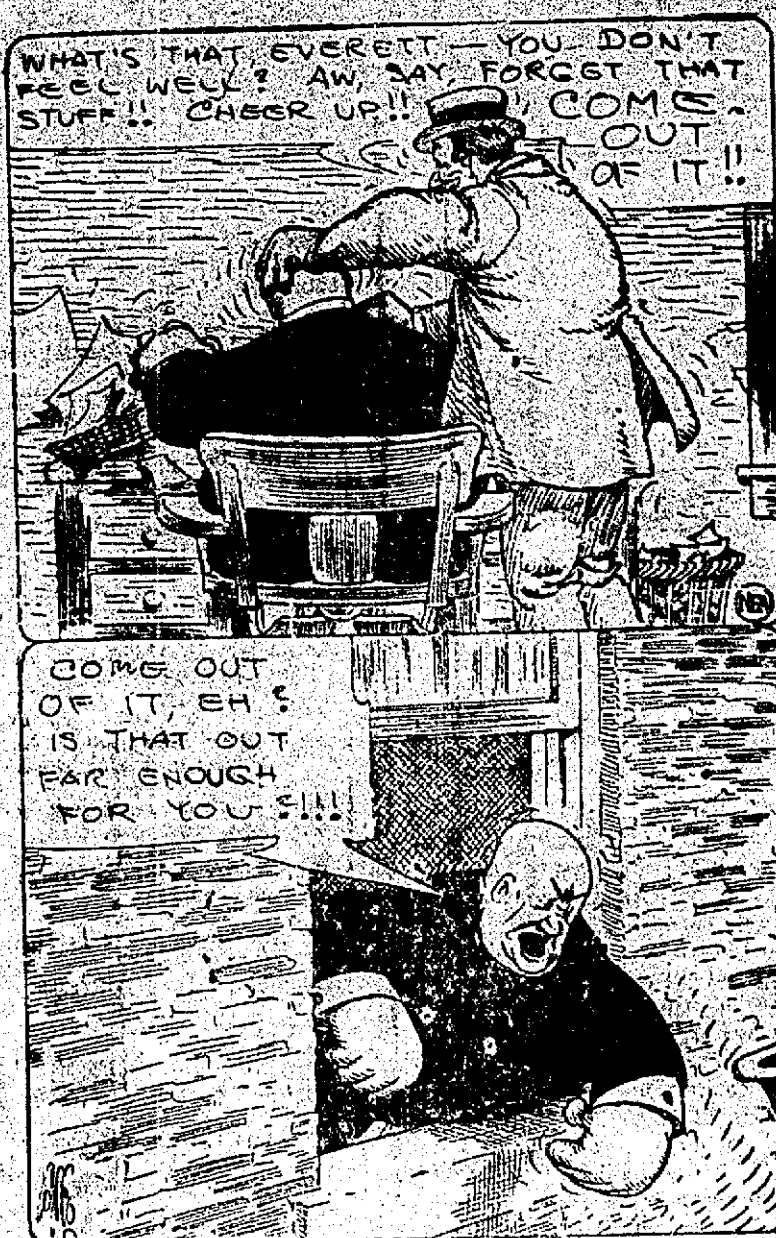

THE LOVE BET

One of the notable events of the current season at the Driggs Theatre on Tuesday evening will be the appearance of Fredrick V. Bowers the famous musical comedy star, heading the Walter Decker, Inc. company in the New York Comedy Theatre success "The Love Bet," a chummy musical comedy in two acts. This piece enjoyed a season's run in New York and is regarded as being the smartest, snappiest and most wholesome musical comedy seen in many years.

The song bit of the comedy, "When the Stars are Shining," is sung by Mr. Bowers in a manner that justifies his reputation of being the best singer of popular songs on the American stage.

Clearfield Butter
Improves any Bread

Says Harry to Frank

"There must be something to that statement. My wife was serving tea and toast the other afternoon to some of her friends and I happened in while they were serving. And several of the ladies remarked how delicious the butter was that the wife used on her toast."

"She was so proud of the fact that her little lunch got across so well that she spilled the beans on where she got her butter. She told them that since she found CLEARFIELD BUTTER was so good she had been using it ever since. 'And,' she continued, 'it must be mighty good butter for Harry hasn't complained once since I started using it—he's such a crank about butter, too.'"

Clearfield Butter is obtainable at most of the grocery stores in this city.

The Worth-Having Woman

"The women who are worth anything at all in this world are the ones who are the most troublesome to manage."—From "Race" by William McFee.

No telling how much power is spent to run the government and capitalists.

It must be awful to feel that and have nothing special to show about it.

Have you noticed the increase in beauty contests since women voted?

Among the wild movements on foot we have the new fall fashions.

A man with a noisy hat usually talks through it.

Nobody seems to care about the price of cotton stockings.

Some say the new dances broaden the feet while others claim they only thicken the head.

If a girl's face is her fortune there's billions in a drug store.

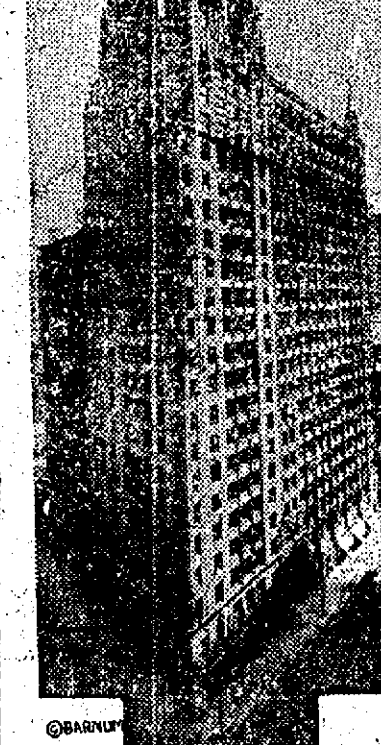

Some husbands are happy, other's wives won't stay home alone.

Opportunity doesn't knock around with other knockers.

Wouldn't it be fine if we all made what we claim we do?

Three Feeds Now Cause Soft Pork

Problem Becoming Nationwide Because of Increasing Use of Soy Beans.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The feeding of hogs so as to prevent the development of soft carcasses, once thought to be a problem only in those regions where peas and feed is no longer a sectional difficulty, says the United States Department of Agriculture in calling attention to the results which have been obtained during five years of investigation. It is now almost a nationwide problem among hog raisers because of the increasing use of soy beans which also produced carcasses lacking in firmness. There are now three feeds recognized as producers of soft pork, peanuts, soy beans, and rice polish.

Result of Experiments.

At the recent annual meeting at Knoxville, Tenn., representatives of the state experiment stations taking part in these investigations, and representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, discussed the results obtained in this long series of experiments. This is the first year it has been possible to make definite statements on the influence of soy beans on firmness of hogs. Summaries of the experimental results obtained by the Alabama, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Texas agricultural experiment stations in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture during five years' investigation of the soft-pork problem have shown that:

1. Soy beans grazed or self-fed alone or with minerals self-fed through a period of seven to eight weeks to pigs starting at approximately 100 pounds weight and making gains of 40 to 50 pounds produce soft carcasses. Further, the results have shown that the degree of softness of the carcass increases as the gain in weight of a hog on this feed increases.

2. Soy beans grazed or self-fed alone or with minerals self-fed to pigs starting at approximately 100 pounds weight and making at least a moderate rate of gain through a period of seven to eight weeks will not produce firm carcasses even though a subsequent gain in weight has been made by the pigs on corn and tankage equal to that previously made on the soy beans.

3. Soy beans grazed or self-fed with a supplementary ration of 2 1/2 per cent of shelled corn with or without minerals self-fed produce soft hogs when the pigs are started on the feeds at approximately 100 pounds weight and make at least a moderate rate of gain through a feeding period of seven to eight weeks.

4. Rice polish and tankage self-fed, free choice on out or rye pasture or in dry lot and with or without a small supplement of skim milk hand-fed to pigs starting at 35 to 125 pounds weight and making gains of 30 pounds or more through a feeding period of eight to fifteen weeks, produce soft carcasses.

5. There is a direct relation between immaturity and softness in pigs. When pigs are fed on ordinary feed combinations which are not unusually low in fat content, such as corn and tankage, or corn, middlings and tankage on pasture or in dry lot and slaughtered at a weight of approximately 160 pounds or less they are, in the usual case, soft.

Feeding Corn and Tankage.
6. Hogs fed corn and tankage gradually become firmer as they mature or take on weight and finish. While hogs fed in this way are usually soft at 100 pounds or less, the hardening is progressive, so that when slaughtered they are approximately 175 pounds or more they are, in the usual case, hard.

7. Freely fed rice and tankage self-fed, free choice on out pasture with or without a small supplement of skim milk hand-fed to pigs starting at approximately 60 pounds weight and making gains of 150 to 200 pounds through feeding periods of 12 to 15 weeks produce, in the usual case, extremely hard hogs. In fact, of a degree of firmness distinctly greater than that occurring in corn fed hogs.

8. The mixture of cornmeal 5 parts and peanut meal (hull free) 1 part self-fed with or without supplementary minerals to pigs starting at approximately 80 pounds weight and making gains of approximately 100 pounds through a feeding period of 9 to 10 weeks produce, in the usual case, hard or medium-hard hogs.

9. Results have shown that when the softening feeds and feed combinations—peanuts or soy beans alone, soy beans supplemented with a 2 1/2 per cent ration of shelled corn, or rice polish and tankage (each with or without minerals)—are fed to pigs which have previously received no softening feeds, there is a distinct relation between the degree of softness and the starting weight and the degree of softness which develops in the pigs decreases as the starting weight increases. Provided equal gains in weight are made and other factors are uniform. Whether the lighter pig of the higher degree of softness or the heavier pig of the relatively lower degree of softness will be hardened more readily by subsequent feeding of hardening feeds is still undetermined. Experiments to settle this question are now in progress.

LESSON NO. 2 THE PROPER USE OF LIGHT HOW WE SEE

Objects are seen by the light that falls upon them and is reflected to our eyes. A dark object reflects but little of the light that falls upon it—perhaps less than one-fourth; a light colored object reflects a large part of the light—perhaps three-quarters.

If we are to see objects, the light must fall upon them and be reflected from them. The more light is needed to enable us to see them. The light that falls on objects which we wish to see may be termed useful light. Most electric lamp bulbs, when used without shades or reflectors throw out light in all directions—just as much to the ceiling and walls of a room as down to the table top. Well designed shades are made so that they not only soften the light, but also reflect some light that would otherwise be wasted and direct it downward and outward to the objects that we wish to see.

GLLJCM

Proper lighting requires two things: First, that there be enough light so that the eye can see quickly and easily; and second, that this light be shaded and so placed in the room that the eye is not strained by glare. Many homes have soft, shaded light that is too dim for good vision; others have enough light but harmful glare is a part of it; too few homes have plenty of light without glare, which is necessary for proper lighting and the protection of eyesight.

The eye is truly a wonderful organ. Because it does not always immediately complain, we often make it work under great difficulty, and strain it.

Have you ever stopped reading because of a feeling of discomfort? You have a headache without any reason for it that you can think of, or your eyes feel tired, or you find that you cannot fix your attention on your book or paper. You may find later that these are signs you were straining your eyes.

We can see under a dim light, but we can see more easily and more quickly if we have more light. When we live day after day with too little light, we are likely to find that our eyesight is affected, and that we may need glasses. Then we know we have strained our eyes until they cannot do their work without help.

DECORATE WITH LIGHT

Up to this point we have thought of lighting only as it helps us to see easily—in other words, as it is useful. Of course, this is very important in every room in the home, and everywhere else. But when we light our homes, we want the lighting to make each room pleasant and attractive, and our lighting, except for the work rooms (the kitchen, the laundry, the basement and attic), should be as much of a decoration or ornament as the pictures and rugs and curtains.

Lighting equipment may be ornamental and decorative, and at the same time it can be made in such a way that it will properly light the room. Much of the lighting equipment in use today can be greatly improved by using shades that are longer, so that the bulb is completely hidden from the eye and denser, so that no extremely bright spot appears in the center of them.

A FEW CAUTIONS

Here are a few cautions that will help you protect your eyes:

Don't judge the amount of light in a room by the brightness of the bare, unshaded bulb. That is the indication of glare.

Don't expose your eyes to unshaded lights. That may cause eye-strain.

Don't read while facing a bright light or a sunny window. Have the light come from beside you or over your shoulder.

Don't use bright lights against a dark background.

Don't try to read in a dim light that tires your eyes.

Don't let your lighting equipment get dirty. Clean it regularly. Dust and dirt may cause you to lose as much as one-half or even three-fifths of the light that the bulbs produce and that you are paying for.

Don't depend on taking out light bulbs to connect appliances and portable lamps. Have convenience outlets put in for this purpose.

Don't be indifferent to the preservation of your eyesight.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

St. John's had another Red Letter Day yesterday. It was Rally Day and proved to be a real one. Another record was broken and when the announcement was made that there were 577 present all faces lit up with a smile that made every effort worth while. This was the largest attendance in the history of the school.

The numbers by the choir and orchestra were inspiring and helpful and all enjoyed hearing the sweet voices of the little folks of the Primary Department. The pastor reviewed the lesson and Mr. E. O. Tobias gave us some echoes of the State Convention held last week in Washington, Pa.

At the evening hour St. John's had another treat when Mrs. Charles L. Gannaway and her adopted daughter brought a message from the Near East. The Near East was brought very close to our own homes through little, bright faced sweet voiced, Zadi, who in a charming way told her story and sang her songs. This little lady won the heart of all our people. Mrs. Gannaway in a very pleasing manner presented the work of the Near East and answered the question that has been uppermost in the minds of many "Why must we continue sending aid to Near East?" Answer—"Children".

Council meeting this evening at 8 o'clock.

is? In the olden days our forefathers were compelled to drive many miles to a store where the needed merchandise might be obtained. Large quantities were purchased at a time because the trips to the store could not be made at frequent intervals.

As citizens increased in number and gathered into communities, stores were established at the various centers of increasing population, until now, we buy right at home, our necessities and luxuries.

That which we value we usually try to protect. And so if we value the facility for purchasing goods in Clearfield we should protect it. The best way to protect it is to make it possible for the merchant to continue in business by giving him our whole patronage. Buying a part only of our requirements from Clearfield stores does not do either justice. For if we all did that we would soon find Clearfield stores carrying only the restricted lines of merchandise as are in demand by the people and then we would not be much better off than our forefathers were. We don't want to go back — we must go forward.

C. H. S. WINS THIRD IN A ROW, STRIKE A HEALTHY STRIDE

Clearfield High grid squad annexed their third victory of the season at the expense of St. Catherine's High of DuBois on the local field Saturday 42-0.

This game was said by our friends to determine the championship of the minor schools so at least the local football team has won one title. The visitors were light and young but with Gmley McCallion adding the incentive, they fought like veterans. McCallion did the lion's share and without him the visitors would have been powerless. The stocky little quarter led his team in fine style and fought back the handicaps quite successfully.

The Red and Black team began play with a changed line. Mohney at left end, Mann and Witherow, tackles, P. McClure and Hughes guards, and Davis at center. This shift showed doubly well in play, although it was not so "meaty." The other side of the line also played well, but suffered when Slew Dale was taken from the game due to injuries. But Rowles, who replaced him, looked about as good as any lineman on the field and not better than some.

The varsity started the game and soon had a lead of seven points. In the second period the second team was rushed in and promptly scored, but an "off-side" called it back. Then the second stringers were replaced in the second period by the first team who finished the contest.

Clearfield High rooters and cheerers were well represented but the volume of cheering was about as great as Epinard's record in America. Some people say they cheered but we were there and we didn't hear them.

STORMY WINTER IS AHEAD FOR THE BIG LEAGUE MAGNATES

By GEORGE BARRY

T. N. S. Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1924, International News Service.)
Washington, Oct. 11.—Baseball is in for a stormy winter season—perhaps the most turbulent of its turbulent history. And some epochal changes may take place in the conduct and personnel of the game before the teams start south in the spring again. One of these changes may be the retirement of either Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's overlord, or Byron Bancroft Johnson, head of the American League, from the business. The warfare between the two men has reached such a stage, it became known today, where Judge Landis begins to consider whether a Curwensville victory at Curwensville Saturday.

Our next opponent withered, Mt. Union High 88-0 before a banner crowd Saturday. Altoona is trying hard to win that title.

The St. Catherine's team was highly complimented after the game by Referee Reading, who said he never officiated in a dumber or more sportsmanlike game, and gave the DuBois boys great credit for their part in it.

Bill Brown, a star football and basketball player at C. H. S., not long back, is making good at the University of Pennsylvania. Bill started the first game against Wyoming, Saturday Saturday. The following from a Philadelphia paper will give some information on him:

"Come on you, Brownie; follow that guard, McGinnis, and you will get a good deal farther a lot easier. Now that's fine."

And turning to a newspaper man, Coach Keogh said: "You'd be surprised how fast these kids pick up the game, especially Brown, who comes from Clear Brook or some other such hay stack village. When he came here he didn't know an end run from a referee's whistle and now he's the classiest back of the lot and follows his interference better than any man on the field."

This may seem funny, but Bill was considered pretty darn good around here and down there he is just learning his stuff.

Extraordinary Display of Fireworks at the Park Tonight.

A program of fireworks is assured by the committee in charge of the fireworks exhibition which will feature as a closing event the Columbus Day celebration at the park tonight. The committee has secured the services of Benny Bello, the fireworks "king," and part owner of the Norristown Fireworks Display Co., who holds quite a reputation as a "shooter" throughout Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Mr. Bello has supervised the manufacturing and exhibiting of special and original set pieces for large county and state fairs and pageants throughout the east such as Allentown, Portville, Reading, Lebanon and Trenton fairs.

In addition to spin wheels, rockets, and the various ground pieces, there will be a special "showing the discoverer and his fleet." Besides regular bombs, several special bombs will be shot off, ranging from five to nine breaks, and the grand "finale" bomb, a 500-shot bomb, will be a little different from anything that has ever been exhibited here in the line of fireworks. This will be worth going many miles to see.

It will be remembered that Benny was a former Clearfield boy, going to Norristown about nine years ago, taking charge of the plant there, and where he has made good since.

"The contests which I witnessed maintained throughout a high degree of skill and every evidence of a high class sportsmanship that will bring to every observer an increased respect for a confidence in our National game. It would be difficult to conceive a finer example of true sport."

"That is what the President of the United States said about it."

"Answer Johnson? I don't have to, it has been done by the President of the United States."

"There were those, Johnson among them, who would have had me call off this series. What have they to say now? What has Johnson to say—his League won the greatest series in history in a contest which the President says 'will bring to every observer an increased respect for and confidence in our National game.'"

Judge Landis does not intend to drop his investigation into the Dolan-O'Connell matter. That, he said today, will be pursued to the limit.

"So far as I am concerned, it will never close, so long as there remains one lead to pursue, one scent to follow. I exonerated Frisch, Kelly and Young because I believe they are honest ball players. Certainly their work in this series justified that belief."

"But if there are others guilty of any scandal in baseball they will be caught and punished. Baseball must and will be kept clean."

ly in her eyes. Her rather large features are emphasized by her black bobbed hair. She has had her hair cut since her arrest.

Counsel for the woman refuses to give the slightest intimation of how he hopes to save the woman from the electric chair. The alleged brutality of Harvey Willow, it is reported, will be capitalized as a "mitigating circumstance."

District Attorney Miller claims a perfect case against the woman. He pointed out that in addition to the woman's confession he may call her young lover, Ralph Shadel, to testify against her.

In a new blue silk dress, black silk stockings, black pumps, her bobbed hair combed straight against her head, Mrs. Willow entered the court a few minutes today. At her side was her seven year old daughter, Ida. The confession, refused to have anything to do with her. Since, however, they have forgiven and have raised a fund to help pay the expense of their daughter's defense.

As in Shadel's trial a confession will be the trump card of the prosecution. The boy's signed admission of the clandestine meetings and the impassioned love affair which terminated in the slaying was admitted as evidence. District Attorney Arthur K. Miller said he has a similar confession from Mrs. Willow.

According to the prosecutor, Mrs. Willow confessed ten days after her arrest, early in August.

"He's lying! he's lying!" The woman cried when told Shadel had made a clean breast of the slaying, and had named her as the slayer. This was the day after the boy confessed on August 8. For over a week she stuck to her story that she was innocent; then she broke down. "I loved Ralph. He was so kind."

Only Small Birds Sing

Have you thought of it? It is only the small birds that sing? You never heard a note of a song from the eagle or in your life, nor from the turkey or the ostrich; but you have heard it from the robin and the lark and the mocking bird and the canary, and how they can sing! So it is from the little folks that we expect the best and sweetest things, the most cheerful and most loving work. So, too, we expect to hear them sing as they go—Grit.

Why Wood Fire Crackles

In wood there are a great many small holes or cells. Some of these have a little moisture in them. When the wood gets hot this moisture turns to steam and bursts the cells. This makes a noise like a small explosion, and a great many such noises together make the crackle of the fire.

SONS OF ITALY PUT ON COLUMBUS DAY PROGRAM OF MERIT

Citizens and Future Citizens of Italian Birth Make Up a Pretty and Colorful Parade.

FIREWORKS TONITE

The celebration of Columbus day in Clearfield today was all that could be desired by the citizens and others of Italian nativity, who made such careful and successful preparations to signify honor their illustrious fellow nationalist, the intrepid discoverer of this great American continent of ours.

The day was ideal for the gathering as from the hour of 6 o'clock this morning, when President Joe Ianaro, began the day by discharging the first installment of fireworks in front of his home on Daisy street, until the big parade started at 1 o'clock, a steady stream of visitors entered the town from every direction.

The meeting place was the new hall of the Sons of Italy nearing completion on Daisy street and there the forenoon was spent in receiving the different delegations and assigning them to their places in the parade.

Delegations were present from the ten or twelve lodges of the Sons of Italy located in this district, which embraced the counties of Clearfield, Centre, Jefferson, Elk, Indiana, and Cambria. The town was profusely decorated, the decorations being the best ever seen in the town, rows of streamers bearing gaily covered pennants being suspended across the main streets of the town from Walnut street on Second and up Nichols to the Park and between Front and Fourth on Market and down Daisy street to the borough line.

The parade was culminated by the music of both the Clearfield Italian Citizens and American Legion Bands, the Clearfield Legion Band, Reynoldsville and Paxsonwaukey bands.

Upon the arrival of the parade at the park addresses were made by Hon. A. R. Chase, Hon. Singleton Bell, himself an honorary member of the order, Walter Welch, Esq., Editor John F. Short, Fred Curran and a number of other visiting and local citizens of Italian nativity.

She has made the gamut kind of a fight for life, but is even now in the "valley of the shadow." Whether she enters the portals of the Great Beyond, despite her great fight to get well, depends on whether or not some healthy, full-blooded person will be willing to endent to supplying the blood for due a little discomfort including a transfusion.

If you consider yourself your brother's keeper sufficient to make this minor sacrifice that health and strength to live may be restored to this patient sufferer, kindly notify the Progress by phone or otherwise to night or tomorrow, your name will be taken and if needed word will be given you in time for a test of your blood to be made previous to the transfusion.

Inspection Of Air Mail Route Is Being Made; A Ship Passed Over Today

Mitchell Field, L. I., Oct. 13. (INS.)—Lieut. M. L. Elliott, U. S. A., hoped off today on an inspection trip of the east-west air mail routes that will keep him flying over 7,000 miles for a month.

The primary purpose of the trip is to find new air ways for mail planes. The War Department authorized O. E. Caesar an artist, to accompany Lieut. Elliott and make sketches of the country covered.

The first stop will be Bellefonte, Pa., then the plane will go to Cleveland, Bryan, Ohio; Mount Clemens, Mich.; Columbus, Neb.; Salt Lake City and Kansas City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, El Paso, Texas; San Antonio, Chicago, and back to Mitchell field.

Lieut. Elliott passed over Clearfield at about noon today, making many circles here to enable the artist to get in a few strokes of the view of the beautiful Susquehanna Valley.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN TO MEET TONIGHT AT COURT HOUSE

The Republican women of Clearfield are getting ready to make an active campaign on behalf of the ticket from Coolidge down to the smallest office. The time set for a sort of conversation to duty is 7:30 this evening when the Council of Republican Women of Clearfield will hold both an organization and public meeting at the Court House in the Arbitration room. At this meeting there will be able speakers and the officers of the organization bespeak a large turnout.

The first part of the meeting will be for routine matters and the speaking will begin at eight o'clock. This organization invites all Republican women to attend the meeting this evening. It also invites those women who are Calvin Coolidge the logical man to be and continue to be president of the United States to attend, regardless of their political beliefs and principles. Do not forget the hour: this evening at 8 o'clock. Members of the organization should be there a half hour earlier.

N. Y. C. CREWS NOT TO BE DISTURBED BY NEW SCHEDULES

Following is a letter received by an officer of the Commercial Club who interested himself in the probability of train crews being taken away from Clearfield in connection with a new scheme of operation being tried out by the Central:

Mr. Randall B. Brubaker, Gen. Secy. The Clearfield Commercial Club, Clearfield, Penna.:

My Dear Mr. Brubaker:—Your letter Oct. 4, relative running crews through to Cherry Tree and return.

We are making some experiments to determine the cost per car and other information on handling our cars in this manner as compared with two crews west bound and east bound. This arrangement, as I see it, is not going to affect your people in any way, and I wish you would explain this matter to them.

My delay in answering your letter was due to my having been away for several days. I hope to be able to see you on my next trip to Clearfield when I will be glad to talk the matter over with you.

Yours truly,
(signed) H. SCOTT, Supt.

Frederick Beam, 20, Is Dead Man; Companion, Walter Ralston, 18, of Kylertown, Is Resuscitated When Taken to Philipsburg Hospital.

YOUTHS LOCKED UP SATURDAY NIGHT

Philipsburg, Pa., Oct. 13.—Frederick Beam, 20, son of Emmet Beam of Woodland, is dead and Walter Ralston, 18, of Kylertown is in the hospital in a grave condition as a result of a fire which gutted the combined public building and jail here this morning about 4:30 o'clock.

The men had been arrested by local officers Saturday evening and confined to the jail for drunkenness. Through all of Saturday night they were in a maudlin condition and created an uproar by their shouts and cries. They quieted down on Sunday; but this morning residents near the jail were awakened by their repeated shouts for help. After nearly an hour of this some one investigated and discovered the blaze in the basement. No attention had before been paid to their appeals, it being assumed they had returned to their maudlin condition of Saturday night.

The alarm was immediately sounded and firemen of both companies responded. The night policeman was located and brought to the jail to release the prisoners. He was unable to insert the key in the lock and when he had succeeded in breaking open the cell doors both men were unconscious. Ralston had his head enclosed in a blanket but Beam was unprotected from the deadly fumes. Fire had not communicated to the cell section of the jail but the smoke and gas flooded the room.

The unconscious men were removed from the burning building and doctors were called to the scene. Artificial respiration was effective in the case of Ralston but Beam was probably dead when he was taken from his cell. Both men were taken to the Philipsburg State hospital and artificial respiration was resorted to for two hours. Beam failed to respond to the heroic measures and he was pronounced dead.

The cause of the fatal fire is undetermined. An early arrival on the scene asserted he had witnessed a couple of men remove a box containing fire from the front of the building. His story is being investigated. When the alleged box was searched for it could not be found. Incendiaries may have started the blaze and taken this precaution to destroy the evidence of their deed. The stubborn blaze resisted the efforts of firemen to extinguish it, and soon spread to the first floor which is used as a fire house. The interior is a total loss. The fire-fighting equipment was saved.

An investigation is being demanded by interested citizens who feel that responsibility for the fire and the resultant death should be placed on those who were at fault. An hour of shouting and shaking the cell doors availed the men nothing—they didn't have a chance. Whether the fault is with the method of conducting the jail remains to be seen.

A brother of the dead youth was informed this morning of the tragic death. He said the family of the deceased had been worried Saturday and Sunday about the whereabouts of young Beam. When he was shown the body of his dead brother the man burst into heart-broken tears. The deplorable happening has saddened the town, although no one here knew either of the men personally.

SWOOP TALKS ON CAMPAIGN ISSUES TO WOMEN VOTERS OF THIS DISTRICT

Congressman Swoope delivered the following interesting address at the meeting of the League of Women voters last evening:

"I am glad to see so many of you here this evening, interested in politics. It seems to me that one of the most discouraging features of the political situation is that so few of the voters take the trouble to vote. In the election of 1920, only one half the men and one-fourth the women turned out. Every woman should consider it as much her duty to vote as she considers it her duty to go to church. We cannot have democratic government in this country unless the people themselves take an interest in it. Therefore, your movement to get out the vote meets a very pressing need, and should have the support of all good citizens.

"I think you ladies should consider all the candidate running for election, as they are all men of good reputation so far as my knowledge extends, solely for the policies they represent. I think this has always been so. For instance, every one of the 26 Presidents of the United States, Democratic, Federalist, Whig, Republican, have been men of the highest character, men whose personal integrity was never even questioned, but what a difference in their policies! Therefore, it is the policies which candidates represent that are most important to the voters.

"There has been much criticism of the first session of the present Congress for what they did and did not do. But it seems to me that all present here this evening will agree that congress did at least three commendable things last winter. First, they reduced the taxes over four hundred million dollars. As nobody wants to pay more taxes than he has to, I know that this reduction of taxes is approved by all.

"Second, they passed a resolution to submit to the states the child labor amendment. There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the purpose of this amendment. For instance, I read in one of the newspapers of my own town that it was bolshevism, because the purpose was to take the children away from the homes and educate them in public institutions. But there was no such purpose in the resolution. By the supreme court decision, it was held that congress had no power to legislate on the subject of child labor. The purpose of the amendment is only to give congress the power to legislate on this subject, and the reason for giving congress this power is to make the law as to child labor uniform over the whole country. At present, some of the states, such as Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, have excellent child labor laws. But many of the other states have no such laws, and the consequence is that children of only seven years of age are toiling in the cotton mills of Georgia 12 hours a day for only seven cents a day. This is not only an outrage on childhood, but is a serious economic drawback to the wage scale in our northern states.

"Third, congress enacted the new immigration law, which is in my opinion, the best law we ever had, and provides that in future immigration following is the text of an able talk made by Congressman William I. Swoope to a body of women assembled at Bradford recently who desired to hear an intelligent exposition of the issues before the American people in the presidential election:

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF THE BANDITS WHO MURDERED GARMAN

Ebensburg, Pa., Oct. 13. (INS.)—After two days' search, no trace of the five bandits who Saturday held up and killed James J. Garman, a guard, in charge of the payroll for the Ebensburg Coal Company, has been found. County, state and local authorities, in addition to five hundred citizens of the county are maintaining a constant search of the woods and highways in the hope of obtaining some clue to the highwaymen's whereabouts.

The Cambria County Commissioners have offered a reward of $1000 for the apprehension of the men.

It is believed by many that the robbery was staged by experts and that several cars may have been used in making their escape. The car used by the bandits was owned by Mrs. Clara Snyder of Johnstown, and was abandoned near Nicktown, Pa.

Five men are being held in the county jail here today in connection with the robbery, and four other suspects arrested last night were released today. Two of the prisoners refused to give their names, but the others said they were Joseph Ferrario, his brother John, and Peter Reed. The quintet was arrested in a wooded section one and one-half miles from Bakertown. The men deny any knowledge of the robber which netted the bandits $33,000.

CAR BURNS UP ON LUTHERSBURG ROAD SUNDAY EVENING

DuBois, Oct. 13.—One of the most disastrous accidents to take place during the day, occurred about 6 o'clock last evening at Chestnut Grove, on the Lakes-to-the-Sea highway, at which time the car owned and driven by J. F. Heller, of South Brady street, was almost completely destroyed as the result of taking fire.

Mr. Heller had been on a trip to Muncy and was returning home at the time. Right after taking the rather steep hill leading up to the Chestnut Hill school house, Mr. Heller, who was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, discovered the automobile to be on fire. The occupants immediately got out of the car and made every effort to extinguish the flames, but they had gotten too much headway, and nothing could be done. Although the burning car was off to one side of the road, traffic for a long distance back on each side was held up, drivers being afraid to take the risk of driving past the flames, fearing an explosion of the gasoline tank. A hole was punched into the tank of the Heller car and the gasoline let out, eliminating the danger of an explosion.

The entire body of the car was destroyed. The flames did most of its damage to the frame, the motor, it is believed, not being damaged to any great extent.

The origin of the fire was attributed to the fact that a part of the heater pipe was lost, and grease in the pan became ignited, working back gradually. The flames were fanned as the car proceeded up the hill.

Philadelphia—Pity for a youthful robber here secured him his release without prosecution when word was received from the Boston police that the youth has a long criminal record. The youth admits being J. Venturini. He refused to give his name here when shot by a policeman after snatching a woman's hand bag but told them to call him the "unfortunate boy."

MRS. WILLOW FACES JURY TODAY; WOMAN IS WITHOUT A FRIEND

By VIN SWEENEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Middleburg, Pa., Oct. 13.—In a low voice and with eyes downcast, Mrs. Annie Willow, charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying of her husband, Harvey Willow, pleaded not guilty to the indictment before Judge Miles I. Potter today.

While the woman was making her plea, her seven-year-old daughter Ida sat in the court room, her big blue eyes filled with tears. The defendant wept when her son, Glenn, 11, came to court.

Mrs. Willow is alleged to have investigated Ralph Shadel, her 18-year-old sweetheart, to shoot her husband while they were in the woods hunting.

Up until noon recess only four of the 21 jurors examined had been accepted. They were: Phares Walters, 37, farmer; George W. Hassinger, 60, laborer; David Spaid, 61, carpenter; Charles Bingham, 67, retired farmer.

Both sides took meticulous care in selecting of jurors. Verbal clashes were numerous and Judge Potter was forced to give opinions and call order several times.

That the case will be one of the most sensational in Central Pennsylvania was evidenced from plans of defense and prosecution.

Ex-Judge A. W. Johnson, chief counsel for the defense, made known he will use a charge of brutality of the husband as one of his chief points. He also said he has several notes from Shadel to Mrs. Willow, passed secretly in the jail, which tend to show Shadel "lied to save himself."

Johnson said he would welcome Shadel being put on the stand for the prosecution for then he would show "the real character of this boy."

On the other hand the prosecution was just as confident of sending Mrs. Willow to the electric chair. District Attorney Miller reiterated again this morning that he is satisfied with his case and said to "look for surprises from Shadel."

Middleburg, Pa., Oct. 13. (INS.)—Spurned by her acquaintances rejected by her friends, condemned by the casual curious, Mrs. Annie Willow, 38, alleged to have driven 18 year old Ralph Shadel to the brutal murder of her husband, today faced the state's grim demand for explanation—death in the electric chair.

Indicted for first degree murder by a grand jury last Monday, the woman, through her counsel chose a separate trial rather than stand jointly with her youthful lover.

Shadel has been convicted of second degree murder and will soon begin his twenty year term in the eastern penitentiary. He has a chance of being released for good behavior at the end of ten years.

Aroused by the brutality of the murder of Harvey Willow by Shadel last December the entire county followed with interest the progress of the boy's trial. But it was an interest toned with pity—pity for a mere boy who was continually pictured as slave to the woman's fascination.

In direct contrast is the attitude of the country folk today. Few have compassion on the wife, who proved unfaithful—fewer still on the woman whose confession admits she urged "Ralph to get rid of him"—her husband. Even her parents, after her

ALL BECAUSE SHE BOBBED HER HAIR

New York, Oct. 13. (INS.)—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dwyer and their two year old daughter Florence, once were a happy family. Then Mrs. Dwyer had her hair bobbed. Her husband was so affected he collapsed and was in bed two weeks. The wife said when he got up he was so enraged he grabbed her throat and abused her.

Today they were in Brooklyn Supreme Court fighting for custody of the baby girl, who sat on the knee of Justice May during testimony taking. He reserved decision, hoping to effect a reconciliation.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

World War veterans who delay making application for Soldiers' Bonus are doing an injustice to themselves and their dependents, and running a risk of losing part of their bonus.

There are 4,500,000 veterans entitled to the bonus. Less than one-third of them have applied—only 1,500,000 so far.

Each soldier is entitled to a bonus consisting of a twenty-year endowment insurance policy, the amount being based upon the length of his service. The sum of his bonus, with interest at four per cent, will be paid in twenty years from now, if he lives. If he dies in the meantime, the money will go to his dependents on insurance payment.

But the amount of insurance varies. In the case of a soldier entitled to a maximum bonus figure of $625, he dies before filing his application, widow, children, or other dependents will get only his $625, paid in quarterly installments of $62.50.

The same soldier had filed his application before dying, his widow, children or other dependents receive $1,580 in one payment CASH.

Most of these men will be alive 20 years from now. Then the surviving man will receive a handsome sum CASH. The full service veteran—the one who served 500 days or over—receive not $625, but $1,900 in money, for his basic bonus is rounded at four per cent interest. Moreover, his insurance certificate, running two years from now, has a value at the banks.

His insurance certificate, it must be understood, costs the soldier nothing. It is a gift from the Government. All he has to do is to apply. Any veteran is not sufficiently interested himself to apply for his father, mother, sister or other children should see that he application.

Application blanks can be obtained at post office or thru the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled Americans Veterans National Guard, the Organized Reserves, Army, Navy, and the Corps stations and the Veterans Bureau Agency, or by addressing Adjusted Compensation Branch, War Department, Washington.

A recruiting officer at No. 29 South Third Street has a staff of men to distribute applications and assist in making them out. Finger experts are also present to complete this phase of filling out the application.

Operating with the State Department of Health's educational campaign, Dr. F. R. Wheeler, Director, Department of Public Health, Scranton, Pa., says:

"I am often referred to be surrounded by men, fearing the lean and the kind. The old saw says: 'A horse for a long race.' Caesar has been right. The old saw is: 'The fat man may sleep well, but the lean man lives longer.' There is no longer doubt that overweight is a definite menace to life and to life. The forty-inch line has gone out of vogue. It is ever considered beautiful. It is now considered dangerous. Falstaff is an amusing old rogue, but he died of diabetes or of high pressure.

Twenty-five per cent of diabetics are overweight. Overweight and high pressure go hand in hand. Fatty, which is associated with gendancy, causes short breath and life.

Overweight in youth is not so serious as it is later. Even slight overweight after 25 years of age is dangerous. The seriousness increases with advancing years and with amount of overweight. Among short men between 40 and 44, a 20 per cent

overweight means an increased mortality of 30 per cent, while a 40 per cent overweight means 80 per cent increase in mortality. To tall men the danger is greater.

Underweight in youth is dangerous, but in mature life it is an asset. The average weight is not the base weight. Mortality statistics prove that those of mature years who are slightly below average weight live longest.

"All this means that you should keep your weight well within the average for your height. Learn what your weight should be, use your scales and head more, your teeth and digestive organs less. Overweight and underweighting alone cause fat. Eat less, exercise more. Fair, fat and forty is no longer a satisfactory alibi. Fair and forty-five; fat—no. Do not tickle your palate at the expense of your health. Do not dig your grave with your teeth. Do not be a fat man. See your doctor and find out the details of safe weight reduction."

shall be for the good of America. But, as I have recently addressed a large audience in Bradford on this subject, including many of you present this evening, I will not at this time go into this subject any further.

"What are the issues of this campaign? The Democratic presidential candidate says that there are three issues before the people at this time. I want to take them up one after the other. The first issue he speaks of is what he calls 'Republican corruption,' and he says that he 'charges the Republican party with corruption.' But 150 years ago Burke said, 'You cannot indict a nation.' The Republican party contains over 20 millions of men and women. The great majority of them are honest, as are the great majority of the Democrats.

"Mr. Davis cites five unworthy public officials, but he does not add that every one of the five, convicted or unconvicted, has retired to private life. The 'Springfield' Republican, writes: 'The scandals belong to the past. The new cabinet officers appointed by President Coolidge have stainless records and unimpeachable integrity. This fact gives the Republican voters new confidence in their party's leadership and its capacity for further service.' The Republican party had no patience with corruptionists. Who was the chief investigator, and who deserves the chief credit for uncovering the fraud in the Veterans' Bureau? Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, a Republican, Colonel Forbes has been indicted and will soon be tried. So has ex-Secretary Fall for the oil frauds, and all those found guilty will be punished as they deserve.

"The second issue he mentions is the tariff. Mr. Davis is an old-fashioned Democrat from a near-southern state, and the only remedy he has to propose for the woes of the farmer and the rest of the country is to reduce the tariff to what he calls a 'competitive basis.' This is the same old Democratic doctrine of free trade which was taught by Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party, who was also from the south, and who denounced the first protective tariff of Hamilton in almost the same words in which Mr. Davis denounces the present Fordney-McCumber tariff.

"But we have had experiences of what it means to have a low Democratic tariff. The last Democratic tariff was the Underwood tariff of 1913. GALLEY 2—SWOOP. This was disastrous to American business and American labor. We found by actual experience that the results predicted by the Republicans in 1912 promptly followed its enactment. Business fell off, works were closed, labor was out of employment, imports largely increased, but prices continued to rise higher and higher.

"What effect did these immense importations have on American products and American labor? It is estimated that in the spring of 1914, under the Democratic tariff and before the European war broke out, 300,000 men in New York and 200,000 in Chicago were patronizing the soup houses and bread lines much as they were in 1896

under the operation of the Wilson tariff of 1894. Factories were everywhere closing down.

"As soon as the Republicans got in, they passed the Fordney Emergency tariff, and followed it by the Fordney-McCumber tariff, both written on protective principles. What was the result? The five million men who were out of employment three years ago have all gone back to work. The sunshine of prosperity beams over the whole country. It shines, too, on the just and the unjust as well; on the Republican protectionist, as well as the Democratic free-trader; everybody is better off because the Republicans won.

"The third issue Mr. Davis speaks of is the League of Nations, although in the tremendous turmoil in the three weeks' fight in the Democratic convention, they consigned the League of Nations to the waste paper basket of an unconstitutional and impossible referendum, their candidate says that he is for joining the League as it is at present constituted, including Article Ten, which requires each of the members to send armies and navies to the assistance of any one of them that may be attacked. This means that our American boys would be sent to the four corners of the earth whenever war started in any one of the 54 countries that make up the present League of Nations. The supreme council of the League of Nations, consisting of only five men, has the power to involve the whole world in war.

"The Republican party believes in avoiding all foreign entanglements. We want to help Europe, but we do not want to ruin ourselves. We intend to do all for Europe that we can afford to. Our late President wanted us to join the World Court. President Coolidge is also in favor of doing so. The World Court is an American idea, and it is quite practicable for the United States to participate in its proceedings without obligating ourselves to become involved in all the innumerable wars of Europe and Asia.

"But there is still a more important issue in this campaign that Mr. Davis mentions, and that is the attempt of the new party to destroy the constitution of the United States and do away with the powers of the supreme court. This is the most dangerous question that has ever been before the American people. It concerns our fundamental law, with its guarantees of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Our constitution is the guarantor of our liberties. It is the supreme law of this country. And Mr. Coolidge is the only presidential candidate that stands unreservedly for the protection and maintenance of that supreme charter or our liberties. This must be said, editorially remarks the Boston Transcript, 'because Mr. Davis has put himself on record as speaking slightly and depreciatingly of the constitution as having been "fixed" so that the "kickers" could control the government.'

"The record of the administration is, as our candidate says, a government of common sense. The government has been rescued from impending bankruptcy caused by the terrible extravagance of the last Democratic administration, and government expenditures have been reduced from seven billion dollars a year to three and one-half billion dollars. The disarmament conference, which a well-known writer styled the greatest advance in world peace ever made in history, was called by the Republican party. The independence of our country free from all entangling alliances with Europe in the League of Nations has been preserved by the Republican party. Finally, the Dawes plan for the settlement of the reparations problem in Europe, and the restoration of peace to those distressed countries.

tries, has been brought about by the leaders of the Republican party.

"On this record our candidate stands. He has been tried and not found wanting. The Boston Post, the leading Democratic paper of New England, is supporting him, and I cannot close my remarks better than by reading to you an editorial from that famous newspaper.

"The Post purposes to support Calvin Coolidge for the presidency. We know Calvin Coolidge as an honest man. He was born in the Lincoln tradition, a product of our New England hills. His rise to the heights has stirred the heart of every man and woman who loves New England. He has honored New England by doing his duty competently and quietly in every office from the lowest to the highest. No man could do more. Amid all the admitted wrong-doing, our New England President stands out clear and blameless. He inherited a situation which would have crushed a less clear-headed and resolute man. He grappled with it courageously and efficiently. America still needs these clean New England virtues which were born and bred in our President. He is the best we have to give to the nation.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

Yesterday was another big day for the church and Sabbath School, at the hour of the morning service it was our privilege to hear the message brought thru God's servant, Rev. W. Gilbert Condit, who came to us representing the work of the Near East Relief. Mr. Condit is one who has seen the great need in the land of the Near East and pictured in a very vivid way the consequence, if this great nation and people failed to help. The musical numbers rendered by the organ and choir were as usual inspiring and uplifting. At the hour of the Sabbath school we were fortunate in having Mr. Kempner, missionary from the distant land of Africa, who brought a real message to all. He with Mrs. Kempner and Mr. Pierson are hoping to return the latter part of the month to their fields of service, and to those who have been brought to know Him, and are beckoning for them to return.

The evening hour of worship, it was our pleasure to have as our guests, the members of the Eastern Star. The message was the fourth step in the series "Building for Life," on "Friends." Dr. Reeve made it very clear that one's friends will either make or mar a life, closing with the thought that to be sure that in the circle was Jesus Christ the chief of all friends. There is no doubt that the singing by the men's chorus is sincerely appreciated, the selection "The Wayside Cross" was a message of great power and blessing.

Oldest Known Will

A will executed in 2548 B. C. is the oldest extant. It is written on papyrus by an Egyptian named Uah. In it he gave his home and other property to his wife, to be left by her to any of their children; arranged for the burial of himself and wife, and appointed a guardian for a son. In fact the will differs little from one which might be executed today.

Why It Will Pay You to Trade In Clearfield

Citizenship has a very definite value. While this value may not be computed in dollars and cents, still it is worth fighting for. Were there no communities there would be no citizens. We would then be merely unprotected individuals entirely at the mercy of all other individuals who might be stronger than we and wish to destroy us.

So you see that by dwelling in communities as citizens we have many advantages. Some of us value and fully appreciate these values while others selfishly accept the advantages offered but refuse to do their share toward maintaining the community.

And so laws were enacted to compel us to pay taxes to use for the financial support of the community for our protection. But we have no laws compelling the members of any community to show appreciation of the benefits derived from living in a community. We are all supposed to be loyal citizens and so no such laws are deemed necessary.

One of the benefits of living in a community is the opportunity afforded us to buy merchandise required for our comfort and indulgence, right here in our own town. This facility permits us to buy what we need when we need it. We can step into a store, lay down a dollar and buy a dollar's worth of merchandise. Can you realize what a genuine benefit this

Why worry about an artificial age, with its commercialized and nerve-racking entertainments, when we still have London to set us an example in simple pleasures? London, it appears, is the home of easy games that take nothing out of the purse and can be played as one goes to and from his work or his home.

First there was "beaver", in which the players scored on the heads of the persons they passed. Next came "tortoise". This time the scoring was done on persons wearing tortoise rim glasses.

The present game is "boob". This is a little more complicated, but not enough so to be out of the simple pleasure class. It involves luring innocent strangers to a show of their knowledge. The players travel in pairs. Their move is to point out some very familiar building or monument or street and to tell each other in tones quite loud enough to be heard what these places are. Only they purposely blunder. For example, the first player might point to Kensington Gardens and exclaim loudly, "Oh, here is the War Office!" If a stranger is caught and attempts to correct the players, there are two methods of scoring. If the stranger makes a true correction, the first speaker simply scores one. But if the corrector himself makes a mistake the first speaker wins the whole game.

How pleasant life must be in dear old London!

MORE MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS

The director of the department of music in the public schools of one of the larger cities believes that the time is nearly ripe for the establishment of a high school devoted entirely to music.

"We have high schools of commerce and high schools of technology," he argues. "The next logical development is a high school of music."

A study made at one of the largest high schools in that city found 58 pupils who expected to make music their vocation. More than twice that number planned to use their musical talent as a partial source of income. In the whole city, it was estimated, there would be from 1,000 to 2,000 pupils wanting to make music their major study. Many of them drop out of high school before their academic course is finished, in order to concentrate the sooner on their musical education. They could be kept in school longer and so derive more benefit from a well-rounded education if they had the same opportunity to specialize in music as the commercial or technical high school pupils have to specialize in accounting or carpentering or dress-making.

A special high school for every trade and profession, which might be regarded as the ultimate outcome of such a policy, would naturally be ridiculous, at least at this stage of educational progress. Many educators maintain that a thorough academic course ought to precede all such specialization, and that some other way should be worked out to keep pupils in school instead of the method proposed.

However that may be, it certainly is a wise plan to contemplate putting more music into the public schools. Orchestras, bands and glee clubs in high schools, as well as choral singing for the whole school, are exceedingly useful and inspiring.

ONE TRAIL—BLAZER TO ANOTHER

By FLORENCE DAVIES

The romance of the air is just beginning to be written. Perhaps the time will come when the air will be as rich in story as the sea. Certainly one little chapter in its romance was written when Ezra Meeker, ninety-one of the trail-blazers of another day, traveled the long route which he once traced by ox team, as the guest of an army air pilot, speeding back in a few days over the ground which he had first covered in many weary months.

Years ago, when the caravans were moving westward across the plains of America, this Ezra Meeker was one of the men who helped to break the trail.

Just the other day, he came back with a trail breaker of the air, enjoying the trip every mile of the way, so he said.

It's an odd thing that even in this very old world the business of trail-breaking goes on. New and better ways are found every day; old routes are abandoned for new roads, and so we move along.

The great thing about Mr. Meeker's picturesque trip back across the continent was surely not that a man of ninety could stand the rigors of air travel, though that was a noteworthy feat in itself. It was rather that Mr. Meeker at ninety was still a trail-blazer, still open-minded enough to accept the next thing.

For it must be remembered that Mr. Meeker has lived to see the snorting iron horse take the place of the lumbering ox-team, the swift moving horseless carriage supercede the horse-driven vehicle and now the winged creatures of the air leave for behind the earthbound motor car, and that he has apparently accepted them all.

For no man who, at ninety would undertake a trip across the country by air, could ever have belonged to that inevitable chorus of "can't-be-doners," the doubters and scoffers who always question the new and cling to the old for very conscience sake.

That and not because he was hardly enough to stand the trip is why Mr.

Meeker must be 90 years young. Youth naturally experiments with the new, looks ahead, tries a better way.

But the trick comes when middle age brings experience and caution. To keep looking ahead then, to keep believing in the future instead of the past, to be willing to learn and to experiment after arteries begin to harden and habits of thought begin to become fixed, that is a real achievement. And so, one feels like saying "Three Cheers for Ezra Meeker," who at ninety is still a trail-blazer.

A Warm Answer To A Cold House

Concede the Best There Is—Guaranteed to Heat Every Room Comfortably—Your Home Must Receive the O. K. of Round Oak Heating Engineers Before you Can Buy—Installed According to Their Plans Specially Drawn After a Study of Your Problems—No Extra Charge for This Service—Will Save Its Cost in Fuel in the Future Years of Service—Built of Heavy Oversize Parts to Serve You a Generation or More—Investigate!

The Round Oak Ironbilt Furnace is made by the Famous Round Oak Folks, who for half a century have made good goods only. It is built to cost, in the long run, less than any other system at any price. Big, heavy, oversize parts of sturdiest metals, joined permanently tight by a patented method, insure low upkeep, low fuel consumption, and freedom from the escape of dust, gas or soot into the house over a generation or more of time. It circulates throughout all rooms an abundance of healthfully moist, clean warmth as it withdraws the cold air out of the rooms.

ROUND OAK
PIPELESS HEATING SYSTEM

It is installed only after the Round Oak Heating Engineers have examined a plan of your home, approved your home as suitable and have prepared special plans for the location of the furnace and registers. Satisfaction is not only thus assured you—satisfaction is GUARANTEED you. On milder days a little fuel will in ten or fifteen minutes completely remove the chill without over-heating. On bitter cold days your house will quickly become and stay as warm and balmy as it is outdoors on an ideal summer day. Thousands of owners of homes which have long been heated by Round Oak Ironbilt Furnaces testify to these facts. Why let your family shiver in discomfort and endure colds and sickness due to inefficient heating—why waste costly fuel up your chimney—why stand for the fuss and constant nursing of a fire that never gives you the comfort it should—why tolerate a worn-out heating plant that fills the home with gas and dirt.

Why suffer these disadvantages when you can so easily take advantage of our immediate offer and enjoy comfort, health and economy with freedom from heating worries for more than the next generation to come?

Come in and see a Round Oak Ironbilt—let us point out its many advantages—let us give you the big free Round Oak Heating Book to take home and study—let us talk over our offer and show you how much it enables you to save!

Do this at once! Call today or tomorrow. Be one of the few to benefit by our offer. Get your heating problem settled for years to come—live with your family in solid comfort no matter how the wind howls outdoors. Save fuel, money, time and trouble! This is your opportunity! Take advantage of it. Do not let it pass without investigation—for investigation does not obligate you in the slightest.

About Sunshine and Othello Ranges

Mr. Wm. Hagerty, Pine St., City: I am still using my Sunshine stove after 35 years of continued use. Well pleased with its performance; a good baker and the big fire box is in excellent condition. The original grate is still being used.

Mr. John H. Martin, Market Street: My Othello stove has been in constant use since I bought it 27 years ago. The top is in excellent condition at the present, showing no signs of warping. I have only burned out one grate in that time. It still has the same waterback and is highly satisfactory in every particular.

Mr. Geo. L. Norris, West Market St.: My old type Othello has lasted me 24 years and I am still using it every day. I have had very satisfactory service and highly recommend it in every way.

ONE OF OUR MOST PROMINENT
CITIZENS AGAIN GIVEN
SPECIAL ATTENTION

We clip the following from the Erie Herald:

"The Firemen's State Convention is being held in our city. Our reporter during the great parade on Thursday noticed the members of the Clearfield Fire Department. His attention was especially attracted by the manly and military bearing of W. Banks Holmes, a member of Clearfield's celebrated fire fighters. Mr. Holmes, we are informed, is one of this State's oldest active firemen, having been in the service for more than forty years. He attends all District and State Conventions and is on these occasions welcomed by the young and old fire boys. He has been honored by his Fire Company by being presented with a gold badge, a certificate of honor, and charter membership. We also noticed while he was parading he attracted the attention of the ladies and many smiles were cast in his direction and numerous bouquets were tossed him by the fair sex. Mr. Holmes is being entertained by an old ministerial friend and think he would vouch for Mr. Holmes' temperate and moral conduct during this trip.

Mr. Holmes informs us the stories he has heard about wharves interesting the waters of the Lake is a strange one. The largest fish he has seen was a 25-pound sun fish which some of the Houtzdale Firemen thought an enlarged gold fish. Will say of friend Holmes, we think, because of his long experience he has been in many tight dangerous places and suffered numerous narrow escapes by a hair's breadth. He well represents the Clearfield Firemen and does them honor. Call again. The stars are down, the door is wide open. You are very welcome."

TWO TRAINMEN DIE
NEAR MILFORD, PA.

New Milford, Pa., Oct. 13 (INS).—The engineer and fireman on an east-bound freight train on the Delaware Lackawanna and Western Railroad were killed here today when the freight was struck from the rear by passenger train No. 14, running on the same track bound from Buffalo to New York.

Passengers in sleeping berths were badly shaken up but none is believed seriously hurt.

The dead men, Michael Kelley, Engineer, and Ray H. Osterhaut, fireman both of Hallstead, Pa., were pinned beneath the "pusher" engine they were operating when it overturned.

TWO SHOT, ONE DIES
IN TRYING ESCAPE
FROM W. VA. PRISON

Moundsville, W. Va., Oct. 13 (INS).—Earl Blankenship, 23, shot to death and Harry McCracken, alias Paul McCracken, 23, received wounds from which he is expected to die when the pair attempted to escape from their cell at the West Virginia state penitentiary today, according to a report made by Warden Simon Smith this afternoon.

The men had released themselves from their cell and were well on their way to freedom when discovered by guards who shot the prisoners, the warden declared. No guards or other prisoners were implicated in the attempted jail break, according to the warden.

Although the shooting caused much confusion, the jail routine was back to normal this afternoon, the warden asserted. Both of the men were convicted from Marion county.

PENNSY-GRAMS

Philadelphia—Two persons were injured here last night when a youth thrust his head out of an automobile and struck a 75-year-old man, knocking him unconscious. Herman Kruse, the victim, was rushed to the hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull. The youth, William Turner, of Trenton, received a badly swollen jaw.

Philadelphia—Mayor Kendrick will go to Washington soon to ask President Coolidge for extension of General Smedley Butler's leave of absence from the marine corps in order that he may stay the full four years here as Safety Director it was announced. The breath between the two men is now closed.

Harrisburg—Their auto running down a 20-foot embankment at Steelton and then toppling over when the steering mechanism became faulty, Dr. B. T. Dickinson and his two daughters, Miss Sarah and Mrs. J. P. Gardner, had a miraculous escape from death. The fact that they remained in the car when it toppled saved them from serious injury although all three were cut by flying glass and painfully bruised.

Altoona—The 31st annual sessions of the Department Council, Militant Patriarchs, of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, opened here today with an address of welcome by Mayor E. P. Giles, and a response by Mayor General R. J. Lippey of Reading. More than 500 delegates are already here for the meeting.

Harrisburg—Mrs. Joseph Dunkle, of Steelton, was instantly killed at the dangerous York Spring cross roads this morning where on Saturday two Franklin and Marshall professors were seriously hurt. Mrs. Dunkle, with a party of friends, were on their way to Washington, D. C., when the accident occurred. She was thrown from the machine and her head was crushed.

HUMANITY MOURNS
DEATH OF FRANCE

Tours, France, Oct. 13 (INS).—Hundreds of messages of condolence were received today over the death of Anatole France, famous French essayist and novelist. He had been ill for a year and had been sinking for two weeks, so his death was not unexpected.

Mr. France was in his 81st year. His funeral probably will be Wednesday or Thursday. It is expected that public ceremonies will be conducted in Paris later.

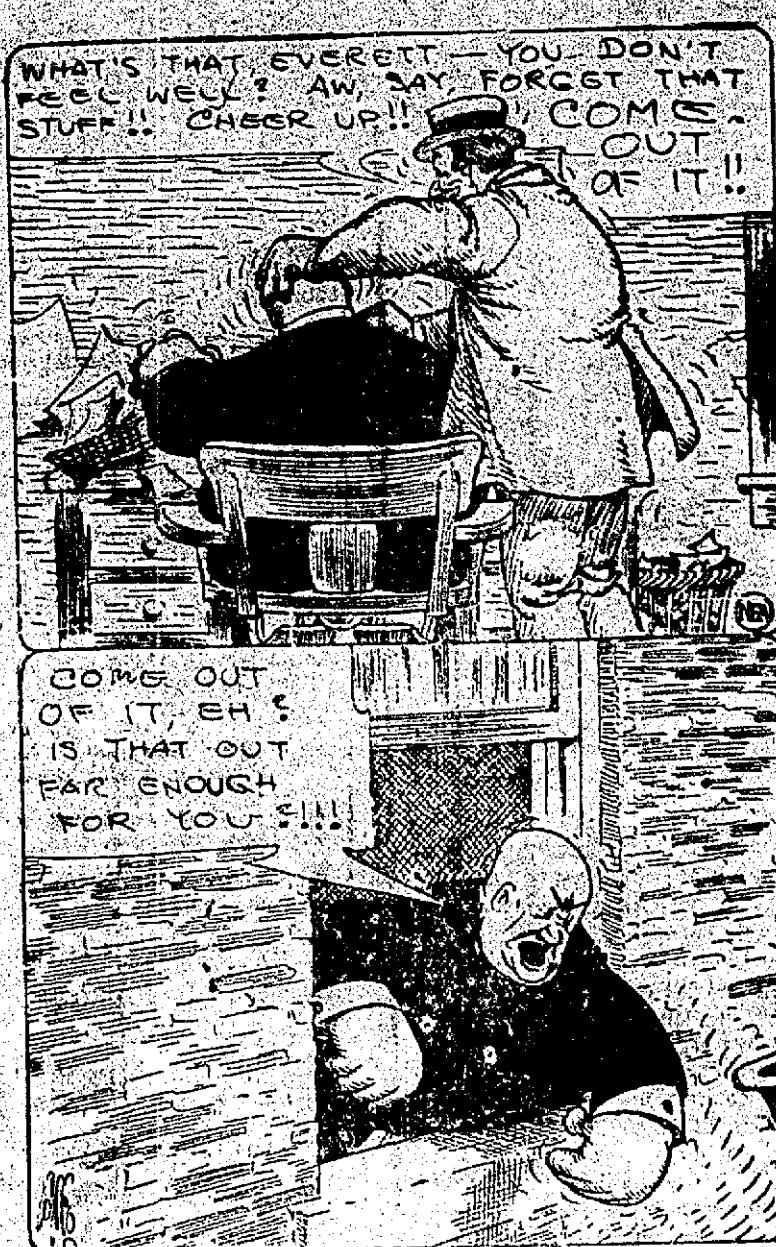

THE LOVE BET

One of the notable events of the current season at the Driggs Theatre on Tuesday evening will be the appearance of Fredrick V. Bowers the famous musical comedy star, heading the Walter Decker, Inc. company in the New York Comedy Theatre success "The Love Bet," a chummy musical comedy in two acts. This piece enjoyed a season's run in New York and is regarded as being the smartest, snappiest and most wholesome musical comedy seen in many years.

The song bit of the comedy, "When the Stars are Shining," is sung by Mr. Bowers in a manner that justifies his reputation of being the best singer of popular songs on the American stage.

Clearfield Butter
Improves any Bread

Says Harry to Frank

"There must be something to that statement. My wife was serving tea and toast the other afternoon to some of her friends and I happened in while they were serving. And several of the ladies remarked how delicious the butter was that the wife used on her toast."

"She was so proud of the fact that her little lunch got across so well that she spilled the beans on where she got her butter. She told them that since she found CLEARFIELD BUTTER was so good she had been using it ever since. 'And,' she continued, 'it must be mighty good butter for Harry hasn't complained once since I started using it—he's such a crank about butter, too.'"

Clearfield Butter is obtainable at most of the grocery stores in this city.

The Worth-Having Woman

"The woman who are worth anything at all in this world are the ones who are the most troublesome to manage."—From "Race" by William Mc Fee.

No telling how much power is spent to run the government and capitalists.

It must be awful to feel that and have nothing special to show about it.

Have you noticed the increase in beauty contests since women voted?

Among the wild movements on foot we have the new fall dances.

A man with a noisy hat usually talks through it.

Nobody seems to care about the price of cotton stockings.

Some say the new dances broaden the feet while others claim they only thicken the heel.

If a girl's face is her fortune there's billions in a drug store.

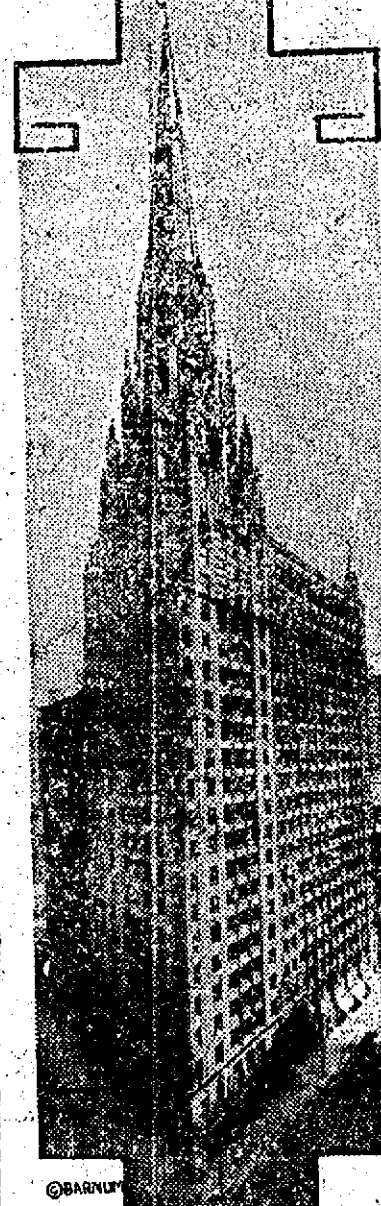

Some husbands are happy, other's wives won't stay home alone.

Opportunity doesn't knock around with other knockers.

Wouldn't it be fine if we all made what we claim we do?

Three Feeds Now Cause Soft Pork

Problem Becoming Nationwide Because of Increasing Use of Soy Bean.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The feeding of hogs so as to prevent the development of soft carcasses, once thought to be a problem only in those regions where peas and feed is no longer a sectional difficulty, says the United States Department of Agriculture in calling attention to the results which have been obtained during five years of investigation. It is now almost a nationwide problem among hog raisers because of the increasing use of soy beans which also produced carcasses lacking in firmness. There are now three feeds recognized as producers of soft pork, peanuts, soy beans, and rice polish.

Result of Experiments.

At the recent annual meeting at Knoxville, Tenn., representatives of the state experiment stations taking part in these investigations, and representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, discussed the results obtained in this long series of experiments. This is the first year it has been possible to make definite statements on the influence of soy beans on firmness of hogs. Summaries by the Alabama, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Texas agricultural experiment stations in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture during five years' investigation of the soft-pork problem have shown that:

1. Soy beans grazed or self-fed alone or with minerals self-fed through a period of seven to eight weeks to pigs starting at approximately 100 pounds weight and making gains of 40 to 50 pounds produce soft carcasses. Further, the results have shown that the degree of softness of the carcass increases as the gain in weight of a hog on this feed increases.

2. Soy beans grazed or self-fed alone or with minerals self-fed to pigs starting at approximately 100 pounds weight and making at least a moderate rate of gain through a period of seven to eight weeks will not produce firm carcasses even though a subsequent gain in weight has been made by the pigs on corn and tankage equal to that previously made on the soy beans.

3. Soy beans grazed or self-fed with a supplementary ration of 2 1/2 per cent of shelled corn with or without minerals self-fed produce soft hogs when the pigs are started on the feeds at approximately 100 pounds weight and make at least a moderate rate of gain through a feeding period of seven to eight weeks.

4. Rice polish and tankage self-fed, free choice on out or rye pasture or in dry lot and with or without a small supplement of skim milk hand-fed to pigs starting at 35 to 125 pounds weight and making gains of 30 pounds or more through a feeding period of eight to fifteen weeks, produce soft carcasses.

5. There is a direct relation between immaturity and softness in pigs. When pigs are fed on ordinary feed combinations which are not unusually low in fat content, such as corn and tankage, or corn, middlings and tankage on pasture or in dry lot and slaughtered at a weight of approximately 160 pounds or less they are, in the usual case, soft.

6. Hogs fed corn and tankage gradually become firmer as they mature or take on weight and finish. While hogs fed in this way are usually soft at 100 pounds or less, the hardening is progressive, so that when slaughtered they are approximately 175 pounds or more they are, in the usual case, hard.

7. Freely fed rice and tankage self-fed, free choice on out pasture with or without a small supplement of skim milk hand-fed to pigs starting at approximately 60 pounds weight and making gains of 150 to 200 pounds through feeding periods of 12 to 15 weeks produce, in the usual case, extremely hard hogs. In fact, of a degree of firmness distinctly greater than that occurring in corn fed hogs.

8. The mixture of cornmeal 5 parts and peanut meal (hull free) 1 part self-fed with or without supplementary minerals to pigs starting at approximately 80 pounds weight and making gains of approximately 100 pounds through a feeding period of 9 to 10 weeks produce, in the usual case, hard or medium-hard hogs.

9. Results have shown that when the softening feeds and feed combinations—peanuts or soy beans alone, soy beans supplemented with a 2 1/2 per cent ration of shelled corn, or rice polish and tankage (each with or without minerals)—are fed to pigs which have previously received no softening feeds, there is a distinct relation between the degree of softness and the starting weight and the degree of softness which develops in the pigs decreases as the starting weight increases. Provided equal gains in weight are made and other factors are uniform. Whether the lighter pig of the higher degree of softness or the heavier pig of the relatively lower degree of softness will be hardened more readily by subsequent feeding of hardening feeds is still undetermined. Experiments to settle this question are now in progress.

LESSON NO. 2 THE PROPER USE OF LIGHT HOW WE SEE

Objects are seen by the light that falls upon them and is reflected to our eyes. A dark object reflects but little of the light that falls upon it—perhaps less than one-fourth; a light colored object reflects a large part of the light—perhaps three-quarters.

If we are to see objects, the light must fall upon them and be reflected from them. The more light is needed to enable us to see them. The light that falls on objects which we wish to see may be termed useful light. Most electric lamp bulbs, when used without shades or reflectors throw out light in all directions—just as much to the ceiling and walls of a room as down to the table top. Well designed shades are made so that they not only soften the light, but also reflect some light that would otherwise be wasted and direct it downward and outward to the objects that we wish to see.

GLLJCM

Proper lighting requires two things: First, that there be enough light so that the eye can see quickly and easily; and second, that this light be shaded and so placed in the room that the eye is not strained by glare. Many homes have soft, shaded light that is too dim for good vision; others have enough light but harmful glare is a part of it; too few homes have plenty of light without glare, which is necessary for proper lighting and the protection of eyesight.

The eye is truly a wonderful organ. Because it does not always immediately complain, we often make it work under great difficulty, and strain it.

Have you ever stopped reading because of a feeling of discomfort? You have a headache without any reason for it that you can think of, or your eyes feel tired, or you find that you cannot fix your attention on your book or paper. You may find later that these are signs you were straining your eyes.

We can see under a dim light, but we can see more easily and more quickly if we have more light. When we live day after day with too little light, we are likely to find that our eyesight is affected, and that we may need glasses. Then we know we have strained our eyes until they cannot do their work without help.

DECORATE WITH LIGHT

Up to this point we have thought of lighting only as it helps us to see easily—in other words, as it is useful. Of course, this is very important in every room in the home, and everywhere else. But when we light our home, we want the lighting to make each room pleasant and attractive, and our lighting, except for the work rooms (the kitchen, the laundry, the bathroom and attic), should be as much of a decoration or ornament as the pictures and rugs and curtains.

Lighting equipment may be ornamental and decorative, and at the same time it can be made in such a way that it will properly light the room. Much of the lighting equipment in use today can be greatly improved by using shades that are longer, so that the bulb is completely hidden from the eye and denser, so that no extremely bright spot appears in the center of them.

A FEW CAUTIONS

Here are a few cautions that will help you protect your eyes:

Don't judge the amount of light in a room by the brightness of the bare, unshaded bulb. That is the indication of glare.

Don't expose your eyes to unshaded lights. That may cause eye-strain.

Don't read while facing a bright light or a sunny window. Have the light come from beside you or over your shoulder.

Don't use bright lights against a dark background.

Don't try to read in a dim light that tires your eyes.

Don't let your lighting equipment get dirty. Clean it regularly. Dust and dirt may cause you to lose as much as one-half or even three-fifths of the light that the bulbs produce and that you are paying for.

Don't depend on taking out light bulbs to connect appliances and portable lamps. Have convenience outlets put in for this purpose.

Don't be indifferent to the preservation of your eyesight.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

St. John's had another Red Letter Day yesterday. It was Rally Day and proved to be a real one. Another record was broken and when the announcement was made that there were 577 present all faces lit up with a smile that made every effort worth while. This was the largest attendance in the history of the school.

The numbers by the choir and orchestra were inspiring and helpful and all enjoyed hearing the sweet voices of the little folks of the Primary Department. The pastor reviewed the lesson and Mr. E. O. Tobias gave us some echoes of the State Convention held last week in Washington, Pa.

At the evening hour St. John's had another treat when Mrs. Charles L. Gannaway and her adopted daughter brought a message from the Near East. The Near East was brought very close to our own homes through little, bright faced sweet voiced, Zadi, who in a charming way told her story and sang her songs. This little lady won the heart of all our people. Mrs. Gannaway in a very pleasing manner presented the work of the Near East and answered the question that has been uppermost in the minds of many "Why must we continue sending aid to Near East?" Answer—"Children".

Council meeting this evening at 8 o'clock.

is? In the olden days our forefathers were compelled to drive many miles to a store where the needed merchandise might be obtained. Large quantities were purchased at a time because the trips to the store could not be made at frequent intervals.

As citizens increased in number and gathered into communities, stores were established at the various centers of increasing population, until now, we buy right at home, our necessities and luxuries.

That which we value we usually try to protect. And so if we value the facility for purchasing goods in Clearfield we should protect it. The best way to protect it is to make it possible for the merchant to continue in business by giving him our whole patronage. Buying a part only of our requirements from Clearfield stores does not do either justice. For if we all did that we would soon find Clearfield stores carrying only the restricted lines of merchandise as are in demand by the people and then we would not be much better off than our forefathers were. We don't want to go back — we must go forward.

C. H. S. WINS THIRD IN A ROW, STRIKE A HEALTHY STRIDE

Clearfield High grid squad annexed their third victory of the season at the expense of St. Catherine's High of DuBois on the local field Saturday 42-0.

This game was said by our friends to determine the championship of the minor schools so at least the local football team has won one title. The visitors were light and young but with Gurney McCallion adding the incentive, they fought like veterans. McCallion did the lion's share and without him the visitors would have been powerless. The stocky little quarter led his team in fine style and fought back the handicaps quite successfully.

The Red and Black team began play with a changed line, Mohney at left end, Mann and Witherow, tackles, P. McClure and Hughes guards, and Davis at center. This shift showed doubly well in play, although it was not so "meaty." The other side of the line also played well, but suffered when Slew Dale was taken from the game due to injuries. But Rowles, who replaced him, looked about as good as any lineman on the field and not better than some.

The varsity started the game and soon had a lead of seven points. In the second period the second team was rushed in and promptly scored, but an "off-side" called it back. Then the second stringers were replaced in the second period by the first team who finished the contest.

Clearfield High rooters and cheerers were well represented but the volume of cheering was about as great as Epinard's record in America. Some people say they cheered but we were there and we didn't hear them.

The lineup:

STORMY WINTER IS AHEAD FOR THE BIG LEAGUE MAGNATES

By GEORGE BARRY

T. N. S. Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1924, International News Service.)
Washington, Oct. 11.—Baseball is in for a stormy winter season—perhaps the most turbulent of its turbulent history. And some epochal changes may take place in the conduct and personnel of the game before the teams start south in the spring again.

One of these changes may be the retirement of either Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's overlord, or Byron Bancroft Johnson, head of the American League, from the business. The warfare between the two men has reached such a stage, it became known today, where Judge Landis begins to consider whether a Curwensville victory at Curwensville Saturday.

Our next opponent withered, Mt. Union High 88-0 before a banner crowd Saturday. Altoona is trying hard to win that title.

The St. Catherine's team was highly complimented after the game by Referee Reading, who said he never officiated in a dumber or more sportsmanlike game, and gave the DuBois boys great credit for their part in it.

Bill Brown, a star football and basketball player at C. H. S., not long back, is making good at the University of Pennsylvania. Bill started the first game against Wyoming, Saturday Saturday. The following from a Philadelphia paper will give some information on him:

"Come on you, Brownie; follow that guard, McGinnis, and you will get a good deal farther a lot easier. Now that's fine."
And turning to a newspaper man, Coach Keogh said: "You'd be surprised how fast these kids pick up the game, especially Brown, who comes from Clear Brook or some other such hay stack village. When he came here he didn't know an end run from a referee's whistle and now he's the classiest back of the lot and follows his interference better than any man on the field."

This may seem funny, but Bill was considered pretty darn good around here and down there he is just learning his stuff.

Baseball is big enough to contain both himself and Johnson. It was bitter enough before, this conflict between the present czar of the game and the dethroned czar of the American League. It has been intensified a thousand-fold by the events leading up to the World's Series. Johnson refused to attend the series because he said the Giants were "a tainted team" by the Dolan-O'Connell scandal, and he publicly "cut" Judge Landis with being "unable or unwilling" to use the knife in a major operation on the game. Landis is going to have a showdown.

The series itself, which set a new high record for enthusiasm, popularity and keen, close competition, constitutes the best answer to the American League head, Judge Landis said today, just before leaving for New York.

"He tried his best to make this series look dirty," exclaimed the Judge. "He wouldn't attend yet the President of the United States attended every game played in Washington save the Sunday game. And while he sniped at the series from afar, here is what the President of the United States said about it:

"The contests which I witnessed maintained throughout a high degree of skill and every evidence of a high class sportsmanship that will bring to every observer an increased respect for a confidence in our National game. It would be difficult to conceive a finer example of true sport."

"That is what the President of the United States said about it. Answer Johnson? I don't have to, it has been done by the President of the United States."

"There were those, Johnson among them, who would have had me call off this series. What have they to say now? What has Johnson to say—his League won the greatest series in history in a contest which the President says 'will bring to every observer an increased respect for and confidence in our National game.'"

Judge Landis does not intend to drop his investigation into the Dolan-O'Connell matter. That, he said today, will be pursued to the limit.

"So far as I am concerned, it will never close, so long as there remains one lead to pursue, one scent to follow. I exonerated Frisch, Kelly and Young because I believe they are honest ball players. Certainly their work in this series justified that belief. "But if there are others guilty of any scandal in baseball they will be caught and punished. Baseball must and will be kept clean."

Mr. Bello has supervised the manufacturing and exhibiting of special and original set pieces for large county and state fairs and pageants throughout the east such as Allentown, Portville, Reading, Lebanon and Trenton fairs.

In addition to spin wheels, rockets, and the various ground pieces, there will be a special showing of the discoverer and his fleet. Besides regular bombs, several special bombs will be shot off, ranging from five to nine bombs, and the grand "finale" bomb, a 500-shot bomb, will be a little different from anything that has ever been exhibited here in the line of fireworks. This will be worth going many miles to see.

It will be remembered that Benny was a former Clearfield boy, going to Norristown about nine years ago, taking charge of the plant there, and where he has made good since.

ly in her eyes. Her rather large features are emphasized by her black bobbed hair. She has had her hair cut since her arrest.

Counsel for the woman refuses to give the slightest intimation of how he hopes to save the woman from the electric chair. The alleged brutality of Harvey Willow, it is reported, will be capitalized as a mitigating circumstance.

District Attorney Miller claims a perfect case against the woman. He pointed out that in addition to the woman's confession he may call her young lover, Ralph Shadel, to testify against her.

In a new blue silk dress, black silk stockings, black pumps, her bobbed hair combed straight against her head, Mrs. Willow entered the court a few minutes today. At her side was her seven year old daughter, Ida. The confession, refused to have anything to do with her. Since, however, they have forgiven and have raised a fund to help pay the expense of their daughter's defense.

As in Shadel's trial a confession will be the trump card of the prosecution. The boy's signed admission of the clandestine meetings and the impassioned love affair which terminated in the slaying was admitted as evidence. District Attorney Arthur K. Miller said he has a similar confession from Mrs. Willow.

According to the prosecutor, Mrs. Willow confessed ten days after her arrest, early in August.

"He's lying! he's lying!" The woman cried when told Shadel had made a clean breast of the slaying, and had named her as the slayer. This was the day after the boy confessed on August 8. For over a week she stuck to her story that she was innocent; then she broke down. "I loved Ralph. He was so kind."

Only Small Birds Sing

Have you thought of it? It is only the small birds that sing? You never heard a note of a song from the eagle or in your life, nor from the turkey or the ostrich; but you have heard it from the robin and the lark and the mocking bird and the canary, and how they can sing! So it is from the little folks that we expect the best and sweetest things, the most cheerful and most loving work. So, too, we expect to hear them sing as they go. Grit.

In wood there are a great many small holes or cells. Some of these have a little moisture in them. When the wood gets hot this moisture turns to steam and bursts the cells. This makes a noise like a small explosion, and a great many such noises together make the crackle of the fire.

In the Bay of Fundy, New Brunswick, the world's highest tides are recorded. Here they often reach an average of 100 feet. On the other hand, the coast of Ireland, at Arklow, there is no perceptible tide at all, and scientists are making constant study to ascertain the reason for this variation.

Effects of Warm Rain

When a warm rain occurs over a snow-covered region it is not the rain so much as the warm wind that makes the snow melt. An inch of rain at 50 degrees Fahrenheit could melt only three inches of light new snow or one inch of old snow.
